

Bill on Monopolies Headed for Senate Expect JFK to Deal Easy With Business

He's Not Hankering For Fight

Get Jobs Moving,
President's Aim

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy, having shown Big Steel who is boss, can be expected to deal tenderly with business in the next few months.

Although Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy says a New York federal grand jury will continue its investigation of possible collusion on steel price increases which were later rescinded, the President is represented as not being in any vindictive mood.

Time to Be Magnanimous

The President, who felt he was kicked in the pants by the steel executives after he had helped get what he called a non-inflationary wage settlement with the Steelworkers Union, was said to feel that this is the time to be magnanimous in victory.

Beyond that, Kennedy obviously has no hankering for the kind of political vendetta with business that Franklin D. Roosevelt seemed to enjoy. He needs business support to attain several major objectives of his administration.

Economy Most Important

The most pressing of these, of course, is to get the economy rolling in higher gear so that it will absorb some of the unemployed and help dispose of this, one of his most troublesome problems.

Additionally, he needs cooperation from business men to put across his international trade proposals. They can help him bypass some of the stumbling blocks certain to be encountered by that program as it inches its way through Congress.

Could Be Crippling

If businessmen in general turned on his program, it could wind up in shambles and he knows it. Similarly, any massive opposition could be crippling.

Bills Signed for Higher Minimum Wage And Closer Regulation of Bingo Games

By MICHAEL KEATING

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The state's minimum wage, now $1 an hour, will go up to $1.15 next October and to $1.25 in 1964.

On June 1, a new state agency, smaller and with more power, will take over the regulation of bingo from the State Lottery Control Commission, which Gov. Rockefeller says has failed to keep corruption out of the game.

These were the highlights of legislation the governor signed over the weekend. After the signings, the governor left for a three-day trip during which he will make official appearances in Detroit and Washington.

The midway point in the 30-day period for action on the 1,012 bills left by the 1962 legislature was reached over the weekend and the governor is approximately halfway through the stack. The deadline for action is midnight April 30.

He signed these other bills:

Office Buildings—Authorizes the state to enter into a lease-purchase arrangement with the state retirement systems, which have large sums of money, for construction of state office buildings in New York City, Binghamton, Utica and Rochester. No timetable has been announced for construction of the buildings.

Edelmuth Is Out Of School Election, Thanks Friends

William F. Edelmuth of 8 Clinton Avenue, a former mayor of Kingston today withdrew his name from the list of candidates seeking election to Kingston Board of Education on Tuesday, May 1.

The withdrawal of Edelmuth leaves six area residents who are seeking election to the two posts on the ballot.

A petition with 170 names was filed for Edelmuth's candidacy without his knowledge. He said he is grateful to the people who signed the petition and those who worked so diligently to secure the signatures. Edelmuth said he had been advised by his physician to keep out of controversy and therefore he thought it best to withdraw from the race.

It is claimed that information had leaked from an unauthorized source to radio reporter Thomas Lacue and the show cause order, in part, asks a determination as to "why an order should not be made herein vacating, cancelling, and setting aside the subpoena served April 10 upon Thomas Lacue."

Gets Time for Affidavit
Corporation Counsel Harry Gold, representing the council's committee, was given three days in which to prepare and submit a replying affidavit.

Copies of the show cause order, signed by Supreme Court Justice Louis G. Bruhn, were served on members of the committee last Wednesday. The attempt to conduct a hearing aimed at learning details of the order stayed the committee's March 22 board meeting. Attorney Frank Campomiharo, representing Lacue of Radio Station WGHQ, served the papers. Both he, and Corporation Counsel Gold appeared before Justice MacAfee today.

The information, which, it is claimed "leaked" from the police board meeting, deals with a report claiming that Mayor Schwenk had said that members of the board who did not agree with him could resign.

GEORGES POMPIDOU

Key Men Retain Positions in New French Cabinet

PARIS (AP) — A new French Cabinet under Premier Georges Pompidou took office today with all the key ministers in Michel Debre's government retaining their jobs.

No new parties were represented in Pompidou's Cabinet and the Gaullist Union for a New Republic remained dominant with 12 of the 22 posts.

Gave Up Bank Job

Pompidou, longtime confidant of President Charles de Gaulle, has no political affiliation. He gave up his job as general director of the Rothschild bank to take over from Debre.

Debre resigned Saturday after three years and three months as premier. This is a postwar record, but under the new French constitution it is much harder to topple a government than before.

Debre said he had felt free to step down since the basis of a settlement of the Algerian independence problem had been approved by the nation. De Gaulle warmly thanked the outgoing premier. (Continued on Page 6, Col. 4)

Points to Burden

The governor estimated that 240,000 New Yorkers earn less than $1.15 an hour and 350,000 earn less than $1.25. Such low wages impose "a serious burden and responsibility on the entire state," the governor said.

The bingo laws carry out recommendations of the special commission Rockefeller appointed to investigate the game after reports that criminal elements had worked their way into what was supposed to be a fund-raising device for benevolent organizations.

Called Inefficient

He complained that the nine-member Lottery Control Commission was inefficient and had too much division of responsibility. The new agency—the State Bingo Control Commission—will have five members.

The measures also set up licensing requirements for those selling or distributing bingo supplies, authorize license suspensions for those who refuse to testify because of possible self-incrimination, require filing of financial reports to local licensing agencies, and broaden the authority of the state and local governments to inspect the books of licensed organizations.

Denial Is Made on Troops Cut

Story on Berlin
Force Criticized

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States today denied most emphatically that it had proposed any reduction of Western troops in Berlin.

"No such proposal on troops reductions has been made," State Department spokesman Lincoln White told a hurriedly convened, midmorning news conference.

White referred specifically to a news dispatch from Bonn, written by Flora Lewis for the Washington Post.

"The Flora Lewis piece in the press this morning is wholly inaccurate," White said.

Called Part of Plan

The Bonn dispatch said that the reduction was part of a new four-point plan on Berlin. It said that the United States has suggested cutting the present 12,500 troops in West Berlin to about 9,000.

The story broke on the eve of new U.S.-Soviet talks in Washington on the Berlin crisis. Differences with West Germany over proposals to be made in the talks have narrowed the area of negotiations open to Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

U.S. officials here and in Bonn were reported striving to win full approval from West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer to four major negotiating proposals circulated to allied governments by Rusk last week.

Oppose Any Concession

Adenauer continued to oppose strenuously any offer of a concession to the Russians, which in his view would move toward recognition of the Communist East German government.

Washington officials declined comment on a story published today by the Washington Post that the United States had proposed to its allies that Western troop strength in West Berlin be reduced if this would contribute to getting a settlement with the Soviet Union on Berlin.

The Berlin garrison totals some 12,500 troops of which over half are American. The Post story, by Flora Lewis under a Bonn dateline, said the reported offer would bring this down to about 3,000 each from the three occupying powers.

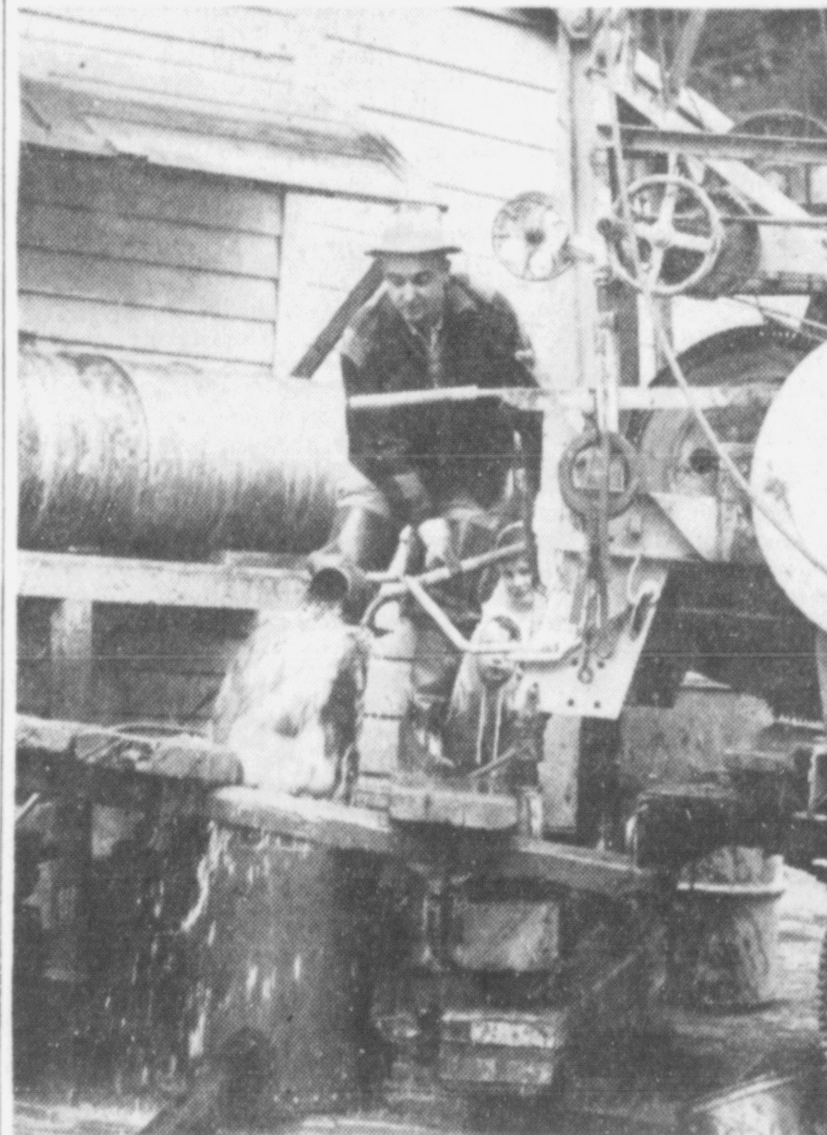

Talks Set Today

Asks That Board Hold Up Action Against Teachers

NEW YORK (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has asked the city Board of Education to withhold any "general action" to punish public school teachers under the state's Condon-Wadlin Act for participating in the one-day strike last Wednesday.

The governor asks that any such action be held off pending review of the law which prohibits strikes by public employees.

In a statement issued at Albany Sunday night, Rockefeller said the penalties of the law are "so severe that they are in many instances impractical to enforce."

The governor said he will appoint a group of citizens "to consider methods for the orderly resolution of controversies in public employment and to reappraise the subject of appropriate penalties" in strikes by public employees.

Assault On Steel Keeps Up

Dozen Big Firms
To Get Subpoenas

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bill to strengthen the government's power to break up monopolistic corporations was on its way to the Senate today while Senate subpoenas were being sped to the dozen largest steel companies.

The massive assault mounted by President Kennedy against steel's $6-a-ton increase was still rolling, though the price boost was rescinded Friday.

The battle's aftermath found the stock market at a 1962 low, Kennedy's prestige at a new high, and the prospects for his whole legislative program considered suddenly brighter.

Want Figures

Pressing ahead with its announced antitrust investigation, the Senate Antitrust subcommittee headed by Sen. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., wrote subpoenas for the 12 top companies to bring in figures on production by mid-May.

Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., prepared to introduce three bills today to sharpen the teeth of the antitrust laws.

His bills would not have been given an outside chance of passage a week ago. Now they must be regarded seriously, especially since Democratic legislators can be expected to capitalize on the so-called monopoly issue in this campaign year.

What Measure Stipulates

The Gore measures would:

1. Give the president power under the Taft-Hartley law to obtain an 80-day injunction against a general price increase in a basic commodity. The procedure would be parallel to the cooling-off period provided for "national emergency" strikes.
2. Create a national consumers advisory board. It would not have binding power but, in a fact-finder's role, could muster public opinion against increases it deemed unjustified.
3. Broaden the antitrust laws, so that the same legal yardstick could be used to break up "existing large concentrations" as is now used to prevent certain proposed industrial mergers.

Plainly Pointed

No companies were named, but the bills were plainly pointed at U.S. Steel, the nation's biggest producer and the one whose announcement last Tuesday of a boost touched off—as in the past—a parade of virtually identical increases by other firms.

An enthusiastic crowd of 4,149 thronged the Lions 15th Annual Exposition at the New York State Armory Saturday bringing the total attendance for the five-night stand to 16,118.

Stuart Munson, Lions Club vice president and director of the exposition, expressed the reaction of one hundred active members of the local organization when he expressed his thanks to the supporters of the show.

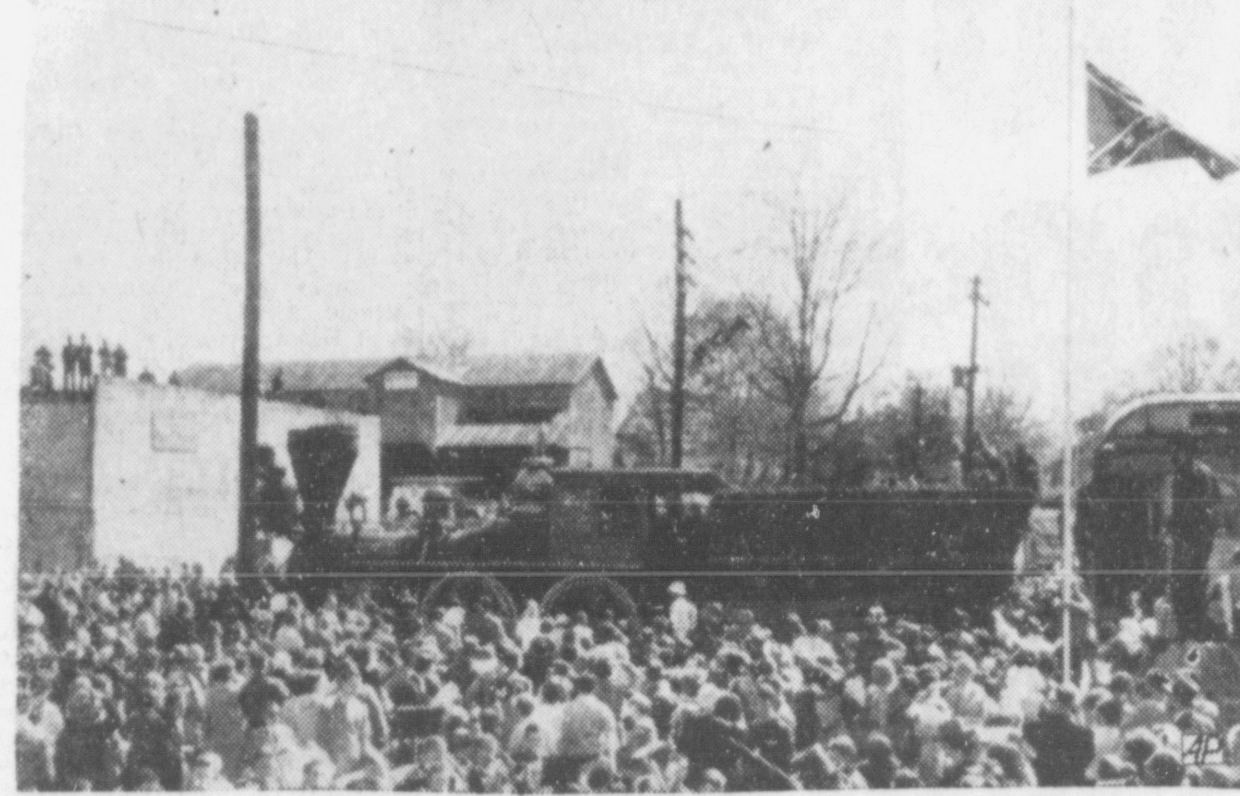

President Stephen McGrath, who managed the 1960 show, was most gratified by the results and termed the success due to many factors, "particularly excellent patron response."

He feels that Joseph Scholier Jr., next year's chairman, will lose no time in initiating formulation of plans for the 1962 show.

Terrorists Getting Bolder

Moslem Mob Lynches Two Europeans Sunday

ALGIERS (AP)—Police and the Secret Army Organization (OAS) battled today in Oran, where underground terrorists in a campaign of growing boldness tried to seize a police camp and its armored cars.

First reports said a policeman was killed and 10 other persons were wounded.

In Algiers, secret army commandos fired on Moslems in the Bab el Oued quarter, killing one and wounding two.

Two Lynched

It was in an Algiers suburb that a Moslem mob lynched two Europeans Sunday in the first act of retaliation against the secret army since the March 19 cease-fire ending the long Algerian nationalist rebellion.

The Algerian Nationalist regime from its base in Tunis warned the French Sunday to take stronger measures against the secret army, which is trying to wreck the cease-fire and keep Algeria French.

It perhaps was significant that, since the warning the first action came in Oran, second largest city in Algiers and a secret army stronghold in western Algeria.

Secret Agents Scatter

The fighting started when a secret army unit tried to take over the police installation at Gambetta, a suburb, and capture the armored cars stationed there, authorities said. Police put up stiff resistance, scattering the secret army agents.

The firing raged from street to street as the casualties mounted. The lynching of the two Europeans by Moslems occurred in the industrial suburb of Maison Carre, nine miles southeast of Algiers.

Enraged youths stopped a car carrying three Europeans, dragged them out, beat them with rocks and sticks, and set the car afire. The third European, critically injured, was rescued.

Elsewhere in Algeria white terrorists killed four Moslems and wounded 28.

At Least 250 Perish

Secret army terrorists driving through Moslem suburbs have shot down Moslem civilians nearly every day since the cease-fire. At least 250 Moslems have perished in Algiers alone. The terrorists are trying to provoke the Moslems into reprisals on a civil war scale that will block Algeria's advance toward independence.

Since the cease-fire, the Moslems have mostly heeded admonitions by nationalist leaders to stay calm despite violence against them.

Impatient over the continuing secret army terrorism, the nationalist command issued a sharp warning from its Tunis headquarters for France to show more energy in breaking the right-wing European resistance to Algerian independence.

The secret army continued to operate virtually unchecked. Secret army commandos in paratrooper uniforms seized Oran's central telephone exchange without opposition Sunday and chased away the outnumbered guard detachment. The secret army men did not interfere with the exchange's operations and withdrew after five hours.

Fifteen Moslems were wounded by a grenade explosion in a crowded market place in Bone. French authorities perturbed by the recent theft of 15 tons of explosives from trucks in France's Sahara oil fields tightened security precautions against secret army terrorists.

Asks That Board

group within 10 days, to make recommendations in time for action by the 1963 Legislature.

The Condon-Wadlin Law provides for automatic dismissal of striking state or local government employees. It provides that they may be rehired, but with loss of pay increases for three years and probation for five years.

The Board of Education is meeting today for the first time since the strike.

To Discuss Penalties

The agenda is expected to include discussion of possible penalties against teachers who struck in a salary dispute with the Board of Education. Another item is expected to be the problem of resuming salary negotiations with the United Federation of Teachers, which called the strike and then called it off in compliance with a State Supreme Court order.

The 15,000 - member federation is collective bargaining agent for all 40,000 teachers in the public school system.

More than 20,000 teachers stayed away from their classrooms last Wednesday. More than a score of schools were forced to close, and operations of almost all of the 900 schools were disrupted.

Rob Dover Plains

the Dover Plains business section.

The men picked up the money and were believed to have made a getaway in a 1961 green Plymouth car. They were last seen heading south on Route 22 in the Harlem Valley.

Dutchess County Sheriff Lawrence Quinlan rushed five patrol cars loaded with deputy sheriffs to the Dover Plains area. Troopers from all sub-stations in Dutchess, Westchester, Putnam and Columbia Counties set up roadblocks. Roadblocks were also set up along Taconic State Parkway. Poughkeepsie police guarded the Mid-Hudson Bridge.

Really Wrecking Things

MIDDLETOWN, N.Y. (AP)—A workman demolishing buildings to make way for an urban renewal project strayed over the line and wrecked a shed on the property of a woman who had been forced to move from her former home because of the project.

"I guess it was just a case of an over-enthusiastic demolisher," said Stanley H. Southwell, the city's urban renewal director.

Bill on Monopolies

had put the finger on U.S. Steel last week. In discussing the questions being explored by the Justice Department, he said one was whether "one company, namely U.S. Steel, so dominates the industry that it controls prices and should be broken up."

As the Sherman and Clayton antitrust laws now stand, the legal requirements for dismembering an existing corporation are much more difficult than those for preventing a merger which might tend to create a monopoly.

Gore's proposals, as he explained them, would make the latter requirements applicable in cases where the government seeks to force a split-up of a corporation which already has acquired monopolistic power.

The President's closest advisers said he wants no reprisals and hopes to preserve the good will and cooperation of business generally. Still, the administration was following through with the measures it set in motion to quash the steel price boost.

The Justice Department was pressing ahead with the federal grand jury investigation in New York which Atty. Gen. Kennedy ordered last Wednesday.

A multimillion-dollar order for high-grade steel that normally would have been divided between Lukens Steel Co. of Coatesville, Pa., and U.S. Steel apparently will go wholly to Lukens. U.S. Steel was crossed off after its price rise, and the Pentagon has made no move to change the decision.

The investigation ordered by the House Antimonopoly subcommittee headed by Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., also was scheduled to open on May 2. But it appeared that Celler would let the Kefauver subcommittee do most of the ball-carrying.

Kennedy's stunning victory over the steel giants may have handed him the key to victories in some looming congressional battles, Capitol sources said. His prestige with Democratic members has soared.

Administration leaders responsible for getting two major Kennedy bills—the farm program and health care for the aged under Social Security—out of committee standing with the voters, they reasoned, has reached heights which even his foes cannot ignore.

The President's standing with labor was hugely enhanced as well. Union leaders who had been increasingly critical of Kennedy's failure to deliver on some campaign promises received a powerful reassurance.

50 per cent of U.S. forces now in Berlin, withdrawal of a few hundred British troops and an increase in the French garrison.

The talks opening here today between Rusk and Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin were scheduled for mid-afternoon. Rusk's previous round of discussions with Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko in Geneva ended three weeks ago.

The Rusk-Gromyko talks failed to break the long East-West deadlock over Berlin, but were followed by a sharp decline in East-West tensions. The Soviets stopped harassing Western aircraft in the corridors between Berlin and West Germany and joined in a new agreement to improve relations between the U.S. and Soviet military missions in West and East Germany.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, back here last week to resign his position as President Kennedy's personal representative in West Berlin, said the easing of tensions had improved the possibility of an East-West agreement.

Clay returned to the German city Sunday to wrap up his affairs. He reassured West Berliners that the United States has never been more strongly pledged to their defense. He reemphasized that if another emergency developed he would return immediately to Berlin.

Light Run of Shad Off Kingston Point

A light run of shad off Kingston Point was indicated by catches of three local fishermen Sunday but future drifts are not expected to bring substantial results until near the end of the week or the start of next week.

Reports today noted that Louis Naccarato, of North Street, netted two bucks and a roe. Louis Turck of North Street netted two bucks and Eugene VanSteenburg, of 60 Newkirk Avenue, netted a buck.

The fishermen are permitted to go out on drifts from 6 a. m. Sunday to 6 a. m. Friday each week of the season.

Only a few fishermen have been trying for shad in recent years compared to the 15 to 20 who went out annually a generation or more ago.

Excommunicated By Rummel in Segregation Feud

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—The Roman Catholic archbishop of New Orleans today excommunicated three persons in a segregation feud, including Louisiana political boss, Leander H. Perez Sr.

Archbishop Joseph Francis Rummel also excommunicated Mrs. B. J. Gaillet Jr. and a Citizens' Council official, Jackson G. Ricau of New Orleans.

Mrs. Gaillet, 41, leader of a small segregation group, Save Our Nation, picketed the archbishop's residence the day he ordered parochial schools to be desegregated.

Perez is a long-time political boss of St. Bernard and Plaquemines parishes (counties). He has been a leading figure in the fight against integration in Louisiana.

Ricau is executive secretary of the pro-segregation Citizens' Council of South Louisiana. Mrs. Gaillet said: "His excellency has no right to make that official without notifying me first. His accusations are false. And the Vatican will have to intervene."

Mrs. Gaillet earlier had sought an audience with the archbishop and said she would appeal directly to the Vatican. The prelate closed the door on any possible audience with her with a statement Sunday night contending he was convinced she intended to use the interview to gain further widespread publicity.

Seek to Contact Pharmacist in Paris

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Police sought today to contact a pharmacist in Paris, France, whose name was on a box of medication found in the hotel room of an unidentified woman who committed suicide here March 26.

The woman, who wore expensive clothing bought in New York, registered at the hotel March 25 as Lillian Berkson of San Francisco. San Francisco police said there was no such address.

The woman's body was found in her hotel room, nearby was a note saying, "I don't know which way to turn."

Decision Reserved

Council held a special meeting Friday night to authorize the hiring of other counsel. The aldermen failed to act on naming other counsel after a long recess, and a letter from Gold noted that he felt there would be no conflict of interest and that he could represent the committee until "actual hearings are commenced."

Campochiaro contends that the committee is attempting to act beyond the scope of its authority in conducting a hearing on the police board meeting.

Other candidates are Gifford R. Beal, Town of Ulster; Robert F. "Bob" Browning, Kingston radio announcer; Mrs. Juleta B. Netter of West Chestnut Street; Charles M. While business may have been shocked by the display of raw power the President put on to roll back the steel price increase, Kennedy believes that many industrialists sympathized with his feeling that he had been double-crossed in his efforts to check inflation.

Business has a direct stake in this effort since any new round of inflation would tend further to price American products out of world markets.

Citizen's Committee Endorses
4 School Board Candidates

The Citizen's Committee for Onteora School board elections was put into action last week-end. The purpose of the group is to encourage the registration of all qualified voters and to back up the following slate of candidates for the School Board on May 1:

John Ebbs, Woodstock; Albert Nussbaum, West Hurley; Harry Allen, Town of Shandaken; and Rev. Chase Page, Phoenicia.

Walter Balk, chairman of the committee said, "we feel the four candidates are the best suited for the district school board. Our selection was made after careful consideration and thorough investigation of the personal qualifications of each candidate."

It is gratifying to see the enthusiastic response that our committee is obtaining in the Woodstock area. Residents in other communities have called to express their approval and support of these candidates. I'm sure that the majority of the people in our school district realize that by uniting at this time we will assure capable and balanced representation on the school board. In our opinion, all of these candidates will take the best path for the entire school district. They are above minority group pressures."

The chairman continued, "we need these people to assure ourselves that our children will obtain a superior educational program. We are especially to see that the candidates we support have filed their petitions early enough for the district to become acquainted with their impressive qualifications."

Richard Langham, also a member of the committee, said, "the feeling of the people we talk to is that the time to act constructively in this school crisis is right now. We can only overcome most of the impasses that exist today by uniting the entire school district as one community and assuring the election of the most highly qualified candidates as members of the district school board."

Among the committee members are David Carlson, Florence Hubbard, Lewis Wilson, Mrs. Alvin Moskowitz, Ted Goddard, Kermit Schwartz, Peter Grad, Mrs. Manuel Bromberg, Mrs. Earl Jones, Mrs. Kiki Godwin, Mrs. John Bertschy and Lamont Marvin.

The committee will meet on Thursday, 8 p. m., at Deane's Restaurant to organize publicity and communications approaches toward accomplishing the goal. Candidates Ebbs and Nussbaum will speak.

C of C Plans
Move Forward

The temporary Board of Directors of the Woodstock Township Chamber of Commerce have decided that their proposed by-laws would include a 9-member board of directors. One third of the board will serve one year, another third two years and the remaining members three years. In this way a turnover would be made yearly. The board elects from its nine members its own president, vice president and treasurer. A secretary will be employed by the board and be an ex-officio member. Officers of the board will be elected yearly and a president may serve no more than two successive terms without a year's inactivity, prior a third possible election.

Various committees exist within the Chamber such as the merchants committee, planning committee, cultural and historic, industrial, publicity and promotion. The amount of study and work committee's is dependent upon the desires of the membership. The membership will decide what committees they wish and those mentioned are examples of other groups organized in various chambers.

The temporary board feels they will complete their work far ahead of their 3-month deadline, although there must be a majority approval by the board on the proposed by-laws and constitution. The constitution has been drawn up and a discussion meeting is pending its approval.

Japanese Captains
Held for Poaching
In Alaska Waters

KODIAK, Alaska (AP) — The captains of two Japanese fishing boats have been arrested on charges of poaching in the latest flareup in years of dissension over fishing by the Japanese in waters claimed by Alaska.

Alaska officials, headed by Capt. E. L. Mayfield of the state police, boarded the 65-foot herring catcher Ohtori Maru No. 5 Saturday night at the mouth of Ugak Bay in Shelikof Strait.

They arrested Captain Higashima Tadao on charges of fishing commercially without a license and having registered his gear or boat.

The Ohtori Maru was escorted to Kodiak by the State Fish and Game Department vessel Teal and held under $25,000 bond.

The Ohtori Maru is one of five catcher boats which Alaska officials say have been taking herring in Shelikof Strait for about two weeks. They are accompanied by a 5,000-ton mother ship, the Banshu Maru, with 123 persons aboard.

Officers also arrested the captain of the Banshu Maru, Mongo M. Hanasaki, but did not seize his ship. Hanasaki was charged with fishing commercially without having notified the state.

Superior Court Judge Edward W. Davis flew here from Anchorage Sunday to arraign Tadao and Hanasaki. He released them to their vessels on their promise to return for a hearing.

In Tokyo, a spokesman for the Taiyo Fisheries Co., which owns the vessels, said, "We have ordered the fleet to operate at least five miles off the coast of the United States, two miles outside the accepted territorial water boundary. We are confident no violation is involved."

Hot Issue for 25 Years

Alleged poaching by Japanese fishermen has been a hot issue in Alaska for at least 25 years. In 1938, the Alaskan delegate in Congress, Anthony Dimond, even suggested that the United States bomb Japanese fishing boats in Alaska waters.

Shelikof Strait, varying in width from 30 to 21 miles, lies between Kodiak Island and the Alaska Peninsula.

Gov. William A. Egan of Alaska said the strait "traditionally has been an inland body of water." He said it was regulated by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service before Alaska became a state.

Hatfield Says He Will Support Blinn

State Senator Ernest I. Hatfield (R-35 Dist.) said Saturday night that, if he is not a candidate to succeed himself for another two-year term in the State Legislature, he will support Dutchess County Republican committee chairman Robert J. Blinn, America.

The Senator said the choice of a candidate for Senator, who serves Dutchess, Putnam and Columbia counties, will rest with the Republicans in the three counties. Hatfield's comment came amid recurring reports he may not run for another term next fall.

Hatfield noted there is one project in Albany he would like to complete before retiring. He didn't say what the project is, but noted that project prevents him from making a definite decision at this time.

Latin American Impression:

North Americans Are Regarded as Stuck Up

PANAMA (AP)—Seven college students touring Latin America in an amphibious vehicle have found that too many persons believe North Americans are stuck up, fabulously rich and not interested in Latin American welfare.

The students, six young Americans from New York State and a New Zealander, reported their observations in a letter to the Panama Star Herald. They wrote from Quito, Ecuador, and said their next stop was Lima, Peru.

The seven, who left New York eight months ago, are George Burrill, Ticonderoga, N.Y.; Tim and Dan Towney of Worcester, N.Y.; Bob Hinds of Gloversville, N.Y.; Frasier Shaw of Bethpage, N.Y.; Walter Kutrieb of Tarrytown, N.Y.; and Colin Reid of Christchurch, New Zealand.

They are traveling in an amphibious truck — the "Valiant Duck."

Besides Ecuador, they have visited Mexico, Guatemala, Salvador, Honduras, Nicaragua, Costa Rica, Panama, Colombia, and Venezuela.

They plan to leave from Rio De Janeiro, Brazil, about July 15 to return to the United States. In their dispatch from Ecuador, the students said that when they set out on the trip, they were "intent on one thing — to show students of Latin America that the people of the United States are little different than they are."

The dispatch added: "We made it our objective to show by good sportsmanship, using American folk music and good old college bull sessions, that the American people are regular Joes."

"We have found that too many people in Latin America believe the Americans from the North to be stuck up, fabulously rich and above all not interested in Latin American welfare."

"We have played basketball with school teams in almost all (the) countries, given musical interchange programs of good old American folk songs and have talked with many students."

Hatfield Says He Will Support Blinn

State Senator Ernest I. Hatfield (R-35 Dist.) said Saturday night that, if he is not a candidate to succeed himself for another two-year term in the State Legislature, he will support Dutchess County Republican committee chairman Robert J. Blinn, America.

The Senator said the choice of a candidate for Senator, who serves Dutchess, Putnam and Columbia counties, will rest with the Republicans in the three counties. Hatfield's comment came amid recurring reports he may not run for another term next fall.

Hatfield noted there is one project in Albany he would like to complete before retiring. He didn't say what the project is, but noted that project prevents him from making a definite decision at this time.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain—without surgery.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H®. At all drug counters.

LOOK TO THE SUBURBS

In a very important sense, the suburbs of American cities will be this country's physical frontier in the decades ahead.

Everybody knows the suburbs have been growing at the expense of the cities for a long time. Not so well appreciated is the fact that in some instances suburban areas already have surpassed or are drawing even with their central cities in population. Many will be outdistancing the city cores between now and 1980.

In the 1950-60 decade, some 20 million Americans moved from city to suburb. Today more than 55 million live in suburban territory.

William Wheaton, director of the University of Pennsylvania's Institute for Urban Studies, paints this striking picture:

"Since central cities' population, in general, is almost stable, it is reasonable to expect that all of our future national population growth will occur in the suburban fringes of our metropolitan areas.

"These fringes must accommodate roughly 90 million people during the next 20 years."

The implications for this country in this revolution in the urban environs are enormous to contemplate.

President Kennedy, noting the defeat of his plan for a U.S. Department of Urban Affairs to co-ordinate the attack on city problems, said it was sure to come later if not now.

Yet whatever the wisdom of the plan, it is possible that it may already be somewhat out of date even at best. The bulk of the problems that go with new growth will be in the suburbs, not the central cities — though the latter will continue to suffer some of their old dilemmas and a fair share of new ones.

Similarly, many people are currently stirred by the possible political upheaval which may follow upon the Supreme Court's decision in the Tennessee reapportionment case. Politicians and observers seem to believe rural-dominated state legislatures in many states will be altered to give the cities their due in representation.

It could be, however, that the "golden moment" for many cities has already passed. If legislatures are in fact jarred into approving fairer representation, the explosion in the suburbs may quickly give them the dominant role.

Political professionals worth their salt should already be wearing their pencils to the nub calculating how to win the support of the steadily mounting numbers of suburban voters. Here, obviously, is the harvest of the future.

For years Republicans regarded the suburbs as their own. But in the 1960 election, President Kennedy won a majority of suburban votes in six of 13 principal metropolitan centers. This is ground, plainly, in open contention.

We fell far, far behind in dealing with the problems of our central cities. It would be a calamity if, in our present belated concentration upon them, we blindly ignore the problems piling up in the widening suburban rings that enclose the cities.

The Russians claim to have found a villager who is 145. Maybe they hope he'll testify that the first 100 years—before the revolution—were the hardest.

WEIGHT CONTROL PLUS

The great emphasis on weight control through diet tends to obscure other important aspects of physical fitness. Losing poundage is only part of the battle. Strength, agility, muscle tone cannot be developed or maintained without exercise.

The point was emphasized once again the other day by Dr. Paul Dudley White, the heart specialist who became nationally known when he attended former President Eisenhower during his illness. He blamed the high incidence of heart disease in this country on the soft life we lead, a life involving physical indolence, over-indulgence in the sedentary sport of watching television, and too much food.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY
RETRAINING WORKERS

In a police state, it is possible to decide that the country requires so many engineers, so many doctors, so many miners and the state recruits the individual and forces him to accept the career of choice. In a free society, a person selects allotted to him. A free society is defined by freedom of his own life and assumes responsibility for that, come what may.

In such a state as West Virginia, the coal miners are trapped by the accident of the elimination of their product. Bituminous coal cannot compete with other producers of heat and light. Despite the high cost of production, the price of bituminous coal has not advanced during the past 10 years. The average value of bituminous coal at the mine in 1957 was $3.08 a ton; in 1960, $4.73. As the value of the dollar has decreased, the price of coal has actually decreased during this period. Nevertheless, American bituminous coal has been sold in West Germany, England, France and Belgium, in coal producing countries, at from $2 to $5 less a ton than native coal because of superior quality and the mechanization of American mining processes.

John L. Lewis, one of the truly great statesmen in labor, always supported mechanization in the hope of increasing the output per miner and therefore increasing his wages; he did not, however, count on quotas, tariffs, government licenses and other devices used in Europe against American products. It is reported, for instance, that recently the British steel mills petitioned their government to import American coling coal as it was $2 to $3 a ton cheaper than British coal and of a better quality, but the British government turned down the petition and refused to grant import licenses. While American exports suffer in European markets because of quotas, etc., the United States permits residual oil to come in from Venezuela to compete with American products.

What is residual oil? The name is clear. It is a waste product, left over from the processing of crude oil. Generally it is thrown away or sold at whatever price it can get. It is being dumped into this country at less than coal can be produced at the mine. Its economic and social effect is to throw American miners out of work. It would be like selling the suds, dirty water that is thrown down a drain after the dishes have been washed. I suppose someone will come day find use for that, too.

Why is residual oil imported into the United States despite the demonstrable fact that it has brought ruin to such a state as West Virginia? It is done for political not economic reasons; that is, the objective is to make Venezuela prosperous, just as we pay exorbitant prices for coffee to benefit Brazil and Colombia.

This type of oil cannot be used by most folks. It requires special equipment which only large users can afford.

What is the solution for such a problem?

Of course, politically, Venezuelans seem to be more important than West Virginians, which is one reason that President Eisenhower was unpopular in that state. So, the idea is to retrain the miners and to move them from their homes to where jobs can be found for retrainees: Young people in the mining towns move to the big industrial cities and, in time, the mining towns can become ghost towns like the silver and gold towns of the West. How many Americans want to be forcibly retrained? How many of them want to leave their homes and churches to export residual oil because Venezuela was had thinking in the political approach to economic problems. The sociology of it is all wrong. From the standpoint of the Kennedy Administration, it would seem to me that the economics of this country cannot be dealt with piecemeal but as a whole, as a matter that requires a national rather than an international approach. The export of jobs has imperiled the automobile and some smaller industries; the import of steel products has imperiled the bituminous coal industry.

The fundamental dangers to our country are the export of jobs and the softening of money. In many respects these items are as serious as our war with Soviet Russia. They can end as destructively and as disastrously.

★ The Well Child ★

Home vs. the Hospital

For Care of Ill Child

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.

Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Now more than ever there are abundant reasons to care at home for the child who is suffering from an infectious disease of only mild to moderate severity. Here are some of the reasons:

The expense is less than at a hospital even if you have hospital insurance.

There is less emotional damage to the child who might be fearful of the hospital.

Parents, too, might be less anxious if the child is close at hand.

The child need not adjust to institutional meals and mealtimes. He may have accustomed foods at accustomed times with such "party treats" as ice cream, cookies and peanut butter.

Mother will have to hustle around, of course, but think of the hours saved by not having to trek to and from the hospital.

With home care, there's no danger of the child picking up and returning with an infection from the hospital.

Against the advantages of home care for the infected child, there are obvious disadvantages, the most pressing being that of starting a household epidemic of the disease in question. Here are suggestions to prevent this complication:

If specific immunizations are available such as measles, mumps and typhoid vaccines, see that injections are given those in need of protection.

Include adult members of the household.

If specific immunizations are not available, seek to obtain protection of healthy household contact by preventive doses of anti-infectives (penicillin in rheumatic fever; isoniazids in tuberculosis). Or of modifying doses of gamma globulin in cases of virus or infectious hepatitis or catarrhal jaundice.

Prevent direct and indirect transmission of the bug by isolating the child in his bedroom, wearing a mask while in the room, using disposable pads for diapers, wipers, bedding, napkins, tableware, towels, etc., boiling personal linens before washing, adding household antiseptic to toilet bowl, scrubbing hands after visits to the toilet and again before eating and, most important, scrubbing your own hands before and after visits to the sick room.

Combining these bits of advice, perhaps you'll succeed in helping the sick child to get well. And keep the well child from getting sick.

For a copy of Dr. Hyman's leaflet "How to Choose Your Family Doctor," send 10 cents to Dr. Hyman, care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, Box 489, Dept. B, Radio City Station, New York 19, N. Y.

Avoidance of heart disease is a good motivation, but much of what Dr. White said also relates to general physical fitness. Reducing caloric intake is not enough. We also need to bestir ourselves more—to walk, do calisthenics, engage in active sports, ride a bicycle. Weight control is only one step toward physical well-being.

Washington News

WASHINGTON — (NEA) —

Unemployment is still the stickiest factor in the economy and the Kennedy administration's worst headache.

March figures just released show unemployment dropped by 180,000 to 4.4 million and total employment rose by 500,000 to 66.3 million, as compared to February levels.

This is encouraging. But the unemployment drop is only half-way from the 7 per cent level of May 1961 to the desired level of not over 4 per cent.

ONE CURIOUS ASPECT of the present situation is that the total labor force of 73 million workers is no higher than it was a year ago. The labor force figure is expected to rise again to over 76 million, as it did last June when high school and college graduates began looking for jobs. But unemployment rates may go up again too, unless there is a business pickup.

Secretary of Labor Arthur Goldberg cites several possible reasons for no steady increase in the labor force.

One is that the campaign to prevent school dropouts may be doing some good. Another is that the increase in Social Security benefits may be inducing more older workers to retire. A third reason is increase in call-ups for the armed services.

THE ONE MOST DISCOURAGING ASPECT of the situation is that the number of long-term unemployed—those who have been continuously without work for 15 weeks or more—is 1.5 million. Those who have been without work for 26 weeks or more number 700,000. Both figures are lower than they were a year ago, but Goldberg admits they are still too high.

Department of Labor's bureau of employment security recently released results of a survey of the long-term unemployed as of last May's peak.

Its most significant revelations are roughly that two-thirds of the long-term unemployed were men with a median age of 43, heads of families who had been out of a job for more than six months in the last three years and who had exhausted their state unemployment benefits.

This last mentioned factor indicates the necessity of President Kennedy's request to Congress for renewal of the 1961 Temporary Extended Unemployment Compensation Act for another year, through March 31, 1963. Payments to a total of 2.5 million long-term unemployed are expected to total over $1.1 billion by this date.

The Kennedy administration has before Congress proposals to make this extension of benefits to a maximum of 39 weeks permanent legislation. Put with House Ways and Means and Senate Finance Committees so tied up with tax reform, trade expansion and medical care for the aged under Social Security, they will not have time to take care of the unemployed except by another temporary extension.

BUREAU OF EMPLOYMENT SECURITY's labor market survey shows that most of the long-term unemployed are found in 20 of 63 major industrial areas and 105 of 203 smaller areas which have had substantial unemployment, above the national average of 6 per cent, for the last several years.

These are the areas on which the administration is concentrating to reduce the hard core of unemployment.

Under the Area Redevelopment Act passed last year it is expected that 800,000 workers will be provided with new jobs by June 30.

The Manpower Retraining Act just passed by Congress will take some time to crank up and is not expected to provide more than 180,000 jobs the first year, 500,000 in the next two.

The $600 million three-year public works program which Kennedy recently asked Congress to approve will be channeled principally into the 75 to 100 labor surplus areas which have had unemployment of 9 per cent and over for more than a year. It may provide on-site jobs for 200,000 unemployed construction workers a year.

CHANNELING MORE GOVERNMENT CONTRACTS into areas of substantial and chronic underemployment will also provide some help. The Trade Expansion Act, if approved by Congress, is expected to provide 450,000 jobs within five years, less maybe 90,000 which will be lost to foreign competition.

Whether this whole combination of government programs, by themselves, can get total unemployment down to the desired 4 per cent level is doubtful. But if they can provide a stimulus to private industry, that may turn the trick.

Soon after the publication of Richard Nixon's book entitled "Six Crises," a mistake was discovered in that part of the Alger Hiss case which dealt with the old Woodstock typewriter on which copies of documents stolen from the State Department had been typed for subsequent delivery to Russian spies. Nixon blamed his memory, always a fallible authority, and there was so much other evidence that this error in a hastily written campaign book should not upset the verdict of the jury or history.

There are other defects in Nixon's story of the Hiss case, however, that are simply impermissible.

Actually Nixon almost torpedoed the case early in the game and it was not his ingenuity that rescued the so-called pumpkin papers from the clutches of Harry Truman's Department of Justice, but the foresight of Robert Stripling, chief investigator of the House Un-American Activities Committee. Nixon had no right to take the "papers" from Washington to New York for scrutiny by a New York Federal Grand Jury, and he almost lost them to the Department of Justice, which undoubtedly would have smothered the whole affair to vindicate Truman's "red berring" slipshodness. This probably would have destroyed the committee.

Nixon was not wholeheartedly with the committee when he became a freshman member of Congress in 1948. He writes "no one was more aware than I that the Committee's past record had been vulnerable."

He soon fell in with Bert Andrews, the New York Herald Tribune's Washington man who was secretly hostile to the committee according to his paper's editorial policy. Andrews proposed that Nixon offer a suggestion that the Hiss case be lifted out of the committee's jurisdiction and handed over to a Commission which would have had absolutely no legal jurisdiction and undoubtedly would have smothered the case with long words. One of those whom Andrews proposed for this Commission was Judge Learned Hand of the U. S. Court of Appeals, a philosophical henchman of Felix Frankfurter, Oliver Wendell Holmes and other members of a self-qualified cult of Goddemitighies who feasted their pompous souls on reciprocal flattery.

Nixon and Andrews went so far that Andrews had his story written the night of the committee's executive examination of Whitaker Chambers in the Commodore Hotel in New York and kept popping into the suite to urge Nixon to hurry up and give him the "go ahead" for his deadline. Finally,

Wage - Price Regulation Seen as a Stability Need

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — There's only one way the American people now can be spared the economic distress which may eventually follow President Kennedy's tragic blunder of last week. For a recession that could conceivably become a deep depression is as certain as day follows night if Mr. Kennedy continues to allow wage increases and then terrorizes and coerces business when it seeks to cover its added costs with a rise in prices. Stability can be achieved now only by the enactment by Congress of a law to fix the standards of wage and price control and to entrust them to a commission to administer during the so-called emergency. This is an action that nobody likes, but which Mr. Kennedy has made inevitable.

For the American people will not long consent to leave in the hands of one man — even the President — the opportunity to raise or lower prices or wages without sanction of law. The talk of "victory" for the President now being heard in Capitol corridors from the leaders in a rubber-stamp Congress will be short-lived if the big problem of meeting labor costs remains much longer in the confused situation it is in today. For some companies, it means a cut in profits and in tax payments to the government, as well as the passing up of dividends this year. Probably about 100,000 steel workers will be idle in the next few months.

How many businessmen, moreover, who sell across the country will dare to raise prices if they live in fear of government reprisals? The President has been brain-washed by his advisers and now has led the public into believing that price increases are sinful or unpatriotic but that wage increases usually are justified.

Goldberg at Parley

Mr. Kennedy is a man who follows the advice given him that seems plausible even if it is one-sided. In the conference last Tuesday night, which he held at the White House with Roger Blough, chairman of the U. S. Steel Corp., the newspapers now report that Secretary of Labor Goldberg did much of the talking. Mr. Goldberg was formerly general counsel of the national Steelworkers Union, and he read the riot act to Mr. Blough. The President, of course, would never have ventured to appoint the general counsel of the U. S. Steel Corp. or of any other steel company to be Secretary of Labor to advise him on the other side of labor questions. What becomes of the "conflict of interest" concept when the same man who helped negotiate for the steelworkers the very contract which prompted the decision last week to increase prices, sits at the side of the President and advises him to take reprisals against the steel industry?

The demoralization of businessmen today is extensive. How can they do any long range planning now?

Politically, the President's tactics last week may boomerang. Wage increases in other industries will have hard sledding and the unions will be unhappy. Also, if the profit squeeze continues and more persons are thrown out of work, the current recession will not soon be ended and could get worse. The Democrats could, therefore, lose many seats in Congress next November.

The talk of prosecuting the steel companies is largely poppycock. If the steel companies violated the anti-trust laws by following each other successively with announcements on price increases, didn't they, by the same theory, violate the anti-trust laws by withdrawing their price rise announcements one by one? Isn't price-fixing, too? There was no collusion in either case, but the government says concerted action amounts to the same thing. Yet labor unions fix wage costs in a whole industry by concerted action. Labor, however, contributed millions of dollars to help elect Mr. Kennedy and the Democratic party. So the anti-trust laws will not soon be amended to include national unions.

Seldom Used Force

The fateful events of the last few days are best summed up by The Associated Press in a dispatch from Washington on Saturday which said:

"The arsenal of weapons the President wheeled into his all-out economic foray against the big business leaders was an awesome display of coldly determined political and economic power seldom, if ever before, employed by the government. Every major governmental department got into the act."

Is this democracy, or is it the forerunner of a quasi-Fascist system? Is it a government under a written constitution, or is it a government by usurpation of legislative authority? Economic facts — unlike political maneuvers — do not depend on artificial "public relations." Business depends on confidence in the fairness of a government that operates under laws and rules which can be understood and are applied equally to all sides. Without such confidence there cannot be profits or prosperity or increased jobs. Without it, Treasury receipts from corporate taxes decline and the government's deficits pile up, thus pushing downward still further the purchasing power of the dollar. Loss of public confidence then leads to a psychology of inflation which breeds economic disaster.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTROOK PEGLER

Stripling beckoned Nixon into the bathroom and said: "If that guy prints that story, I'm going to destroy you." It never was printed.

Later, on a Sunday afternoon in Washington, Nixon showed up at the committee's office where the pumpkin papers were kept in a safe under an armed guard and demanded all the documents and microfilms. He was going to take them to New York and show them to the Grand Jury. Stripling summoned Rep. John Rankin, of Mississippi, and Rankin told Nixon the material belonged to the U. S. Congress and that no other Department of the Government had any power to seize it. "That stuff is the dead cat in Truman's family cistern," Rankin said. There was a loud fight and Nixon settled that by assuming personal responsibility. He determined to take the stuff to New York. Stripling secretly ordered two Committee investigators, William Wheeler and Don Appell, to go up to New York and hang around the Federal Building next day.

Sure enough, the Department of Justice tried to seize the stuff after Nixon had testified and Nixon was hailed before a Judge. He got a recess to phone Stripling in Washington and Stripling called in Congressman Rankin, Karl Mundt, Edward Hebert and Parnell Thomas. Then Stripling phoned Nixon to ask permission to go to the men's room and to slip the material to Wheeler and Appell. He did and they took off for Washington.

Nixon now writes that "we" had confidence in the lower echelons of the Department of Justice but "no confidence" in their superiors, which is high octane hogwash. The committee had no confidence in any level of the Department of Justice, except for a few employees who sometimes fed the committee secret tips on intentions within the department.

No explanation ever has been made of Nixon's desire to tip the committee's hand to the Department of Justice and expose its evidence to seizure and sabotage.

New Paltz Holsteins Complete Records

The Holstein herd of Joseph McAnis of New Paltz has 32 completed production records averaging 13,775 pounds of milk and 514 pounds of butterfat, according to the Holstein-Friesian Association of America which has announced a new lactation average for that registered herd.

Lactation averages are calculated on the commonly-employed two-milkings a day, 305 days, mature equivalent basis. This provides a uniform basis for comparison and selection in registered Holstein breeding programs. Cornell University supervised the weighing and testing of production as part of the official herd-testing programs of the national Holstein organization.

Each year, according to averages over the past 10 years, about 2.2 million Americans reach the age of 21.

INVESTMENT CLUBS

Frequently this column is asked how to organize and run an investment club. Here in the metropolitan New York area, I have helped a score of successful clubs get started. Several key people should form the nucleus of such organizations.

A young lawyer still in the process of building up a practice should be a member. He would write the club's constitution and by-laws. He would guide it through the tax channels, and supervise the accounting.

A second important person in the club should be someone professionally engaged in the securities business for an amateur investor who has managed his own money well.

At the outset, the club should have a member who is a good public speaker and who knows Roberts Rules of Order. This person might be elected the first president of the club.

The fourth person, who would be elected treasurer, should have had experience in handling money for some banking or savings institution.

A club of 20 is ideal. The four officers would be: president, vice president, secretary, and treasurer. The board of managers might include the officers and one to three other members.

The office of president should be rotated every year. Such procedure would tend to challenge the resourcefulness and ingenuity of the president.

With twenty members, the chief executive officer should assign to each member a basic industry, and for one year the member would make a comprehensive study of that industry and of its leading corporations. At every meeting, a member would make a 20, 30 or 40-minute report of his studies and research.

Following the statements and conclusions, the operations of the club in buying and selling securities would be greatly simplified by these reports. Each member would thus become an authority and a champion of his own industry, and the choice of securities to be purchased by the club would be made easier.

Monthly payments into the club's security funds would be regulated by the financial power of the members. If club members should pay $25 a month and if there were twenty members, a sum of $500 a month — $6,000 a year — would result.

Money management policies should be clearly outlined. Right here is where members should get great pleasure. Some conservative persons will want to invest; others will want to speculate.

I have attended many club meetings where disagreement about how money should be handled has generated the heat one can expect from a bitter political campaign.

Investment clubs are perfectly attuned to our democratic society. There ought to be such a club in every community where investor interest is large and growing. And a club of 20 might well have 20 meetings a year, thus affording each member an opportunity to expound his ideas of investment in the field he has studied.

These ideas about investment clubs spring from our experiences at my university finance seminars which I have conducted for many years.

(Q) "Do you think the stock market will sink badly one of these days?" T. H. D.
(A) No. The volume of money in America and the growing inflation here will prevent it.

Rocky Charges Kennedy Lacks Vigor in Home Problem Action

DETROIT, Mich. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, considered a leading contender for the Republican nomination for President in 1964, charged today that the Kennedy Administration had failed to attack the nation's basic economic problems with sufficient vigor or understanding.

"Good sentiments are not enough if action is weak or ambiguous," the governor said in a speech prepared for delivery before the Economic Club of Detroit.

On the domestic scene, Rockefeller said, the basic problem is the downward trend in business profits and "the lag in business capital investment due to inadequate incentives."

"The drop in our average growth rate in the later postwar years," the governor contended, "has been directly related to the low rate of business investment in new plant equipment."

Measures inadequate Although the national Democratic administration has proposed investment incentives in the form of tax credits and liberalized depreciation allowances, Rockefeller said they are "unsatisfactory and inadequate."

He said: "It is most unfortunate that, having articulated the proper objectives, the Kennedy Administration could not present a plan which would be adequate to do the job—a plan involving liberalized depreciation allowances or other effective methods which businessmen could enthusiastically support."

The governor urged Congress to take the lead in developing "effective legislation in this area."

In his text, Rockefeller made no reference to the rise in steel prices of about $6 a ton announced by major corporations last week. The steel companies said they had acted to provide funds for plant expansion and modernization.

The price hike was rescinded under pressure from President Kennedy.

On Saturday, the governor had commented that the steel price controversy was "very disturbing on all sides."

Two Actions of Value In his speech, Rockefeller said that only two of 17 administrative and executive actions taken by the national administration last year "could possibly be interpreted as directed toward bolstering business incentives."

He identified these as a "modest" reduction in Small Business Administration loan rates and measures to extend Export-Import Bank credit guarantees and insurance accommodations. The governor also contended that of 20 legislative recommendations and actions by the Kennedy Administration, the tax credit and depreciation proposal "stands as the sole measure carrying any true business incentive orientation."

Rockefeller said it was essential that everything be done to permit the current recovery to carry through to a high level, rather than be the "second anemic recovery in a row."

Supports Kennedy Request In the field of international trade, the governor said he supported President Kennedy's request for broad new powers to negotiate trade and tariff agreements. "I believe that the present world situation demands a major shift in the orientation of our commercial policy," Rockefeller said. "We must put ourselves in a position to make large concessions—in return for large concessions that will advance our national and free world interests."

But the governor said: "My chief criticism...is that I have seen very little by way of explanation as to what we intend to use the new powers for if they are granted."

"Frankly, I can see little merit in granting new powers unless we have a very clear conception of what we intend to do with them."

Asks Bloomington Residents to Halt Brush, Grass Fires Chief Oscar Hahn has issued a special request to all Bloomington Fire District residents to refrain from starting brush and grass fires, between the hours from 7 a. m. to 5 p. m. The chief has stated that such fires, though innocently begun and apparently under control, can spread very rapidly in a matter of minutes and perhaps cause an unwanted and unexpected tragedy.

Charles Peterson announced there will be a committee meeting Thursday, April 26 at Rosendale firehouse 7:30 p. m. to discuss the bazaar, sponsored by the Volunteer Firemen's Association, Township of Rosendale, July 6 and 7 at St. Peter's Church grounds, Rosendale.

Firemen from Bloomington, Rosendale, Cottekill, Binnewater and High Falls will conduct the bazaar. The Bloomington contingent of the committee includes Peterson, bazaar general chairman; Herb Faure, John Markle, Joseph Hafner, Donald Sagar and Richard Staley.

The April issue of the Bloomington Fire Company News, the department's own newspaper, has been distributed to all Bloomington Fire District residents. The paper, written, edited and published by the firemen will be available every month on the Saturday following the regular monthly fire company meeting.

Asking Questions Of Drivers Today In Road Study

Under the direction of the New York State Department of Public Works a three-day origin-destination survey got underway today at Poughkeepsie to determine where motorists started their trip and their destination.

Highways on which motorists will be stopped today, Tuesday and Wednesday include Routes 44, 9, 9G, 376 and other main traffic arteries on the outskirts of the city of Poughkeepsie.

Assisting in the survey will be the Mid-Hudson Industrial Association, the Poughkeepsie Area Inc., the Action Council of Poughkeepsie and the Dutchess County Planning Board.

The check also will include the Mid-Hudson Bridge.

James Spratt Jr., department planning engineer, said the survey is part of a comprehensive study, the results of which will be used to make recommendations for improvements to the highway system in the Poughkeepsie area.

Key Men Retain

For his loyal efforts and wished him well.

There were reports, however, that the two men did not agree on the question of early parliamentary elections. Debra favored elections in May in view of De Gaulle's popularity because of the ending of the Algerian war. De Gaulle reportedly felt the present Assembly would carry on his program.

Retains Key Men

Pompidou brought in nine new ministers, but retained Debra's key men, including Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville, Interior Minister Roger Frey, Defense Minister Pierre Messmer, Finance Minister Valéry Giscard d'Estaing and Louis Joxe, minister for Algerian affairs.

The most important additions were former Premier Pierre Pflimlin as minister of state for cooperation with African states; Maurice Schumann, national planning; and Gaston Palewski, scientific research.

White Joins

Whittaker announced he was retiring from doctor's orders. White had led the National Citizens Committee Movement for Kennedy in the 1960 campaign and was appointed deputy attorney general at the start of the Kennedy administration. He practiced law before taking the government post.

Endorsed by Bar

White's appointment was endorsed by the American Bar Association and confirmed quickly by the Senate.

As a law clerk, White drew a salary of $5,116 a year. He was paid $21,000 as deputy attorney general and his pay now goes to $25,000-a year in a lifetime job.

White is in for a busy two weeks but probably won't experience his heaviest work as a justice until next fall. The court has scheduled arguments in about 18 cases for the next two weeks. After Whittaker's retirement was announced the court put off deciding 12 major argued cases and called for re-arguments in the new term that begins in October.

Miss N. Y. State

Fred Moore head of the Pageant's television committee, stated that the pageant has been working with various television producers and potential sponsors for the past several months.

John Koushous, who headed the VHF Survey team, is considered one of the nation's outstanding television producers.

During his 17 years with the Columbia Broadcasting Company's Television Network, Koushous played a leading role in that network's important position in television productions.

It was also reported that the Miss New York State Pageant has the Toni Company interested in the telecast and negotiations are currently underway with other potential sponsors.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—Steels continued weak and the rest of the stock market edged irregularly lower in moderate trading early this afternoon.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .10 at 251.60 with industrials down .50, rails down .30 and utilities up .50.

Rescinding of the surprise $6-a-ton price increase for steel last week left the profit outlook dim for the steelmakers and they took sharp losses running to more than 2 points for some.

The crisis between the administration and the steel industry left the conviction that the inflationary spiral has been halted and that price gains in other industries may be hard to come by.

U.S. Steel, Republic, Jones & Laughlin, Inland and Lukens were all down 2 points or more while Bethlehem lost more than a point. An early gain exceeding a point by Du Pont was erased and the stock showed a net loss of a point.

IBM canceled a 3-point rise and took a net loss exceeding 2. Other 2-point losses included Youngs, town of Steel, Litton Industries, Texas Gulf Producing and Korvette. Beckman Instruments fell about 4. Polaroid recovered more than a point and Xerox was up more than 2.

Ford was up a point and Chrysler a fraction while General Motors traded about unchanged.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 3.03 at 684.87.

Four Are Injured In Chain Mishap Near W. Hurley

Four persons were injured Sunday night in a series of traffic mishaps on Route 28 near Glenford involving four cars which alerted Kingston state police, a town constable, West Hurley Rescue Squad and fire company and Ulster County Highway Department.

Troopers identified the injured who were reported in good condition today at Kingston Hospital as follows: Dominick Vanacore, 19 of Shokan, lacerations of the scalp, left calf and abrasions of left side of the face.

Rita Perry, 18 of Woodstock, possible concussions and possible internal injuries.

Aloysius Bailey, 57 of 92 Broadway, Kingston, fracture of the left leg, lacerations of the face and head.

Treated at the hospital and released was Elizabeth Hoffman, 15 of Kingston, a passenger in a car operated by Grace Hoffman, 47 of Kingston.

Trooper W. E. Wiedemann of Phoenixia Barracks, who investigated with Troopers David Wachtel and Carl Robke reported Bailey was proceeding east on Route 28 in the Town of Hurley near Glenford when he swerved to the right to avoid hitting an oncoming vehicle traveling west. He went off the shoulder, lost control, struck a guard fence and was thrown from the vehicle to the pavement, troopers said. The mishap occurred at 9 p. m.

Three other cars following the Bailey car subsequently became involved in the chain of events.

Troopers said Mrs. Hoffman in her 1959 sedan and C. J. Gross, 61 of Main Street, Kingston, in a 1962 sedan attempted to halt when they saw the mishap. Another vehicle operated by Vanacore following the Hoffman and Gross cars rammed into the rear of the Gross vehicle, pushing him into the rear of the Hoffman car, troopers said.

Aiding in the investigation was Town of Shandaken Constable Robert Grennie. West Hurley Rescue Squad took some of the injured to the hospital. West Hurley pumper and firemen stood by to wash the highway and highway department men cleared the debris.

Stratton Brings Gubernatorial Campaign to Area

Schenectady Congressman Samuel S. Stratton, an announced candidate for governor on the Democratic ticket brought his campaign to Ulster County Saturday at the Town of Esopus Democratic Committee dinner in Broglie's, West Park.

Stratton scored Governor Rockefeller for "his soft policy on conservation."

Appealing to the sportsmen and hunters in the area, Stratton said, "He (Rockefeller) consistently ignored the appeals of sportsmen and hunters and he has failed to speak out sharply and strongly against the latest shocking efforts to break down the state's forever wild policy for the Forest Preserve."

"The Bartlett-Anderson proposal is dead for this year, fortunately, but we can look for this assault on our natural resources to be opened again as soon as the election is over, because the governor's own commissioner of conservation is reported in favor of it," Stratton said.

The proposed amendment to the State Constitution, killed in committee by the Republican legislature, was introduced by Sen. Warren Anderson, (R) of Binghamton and Assemblyman Richard J. Bartlett (D) of Glens Falls and would set aside 10 per cent of the forest preserve land for swimming, picnicking, camping and boating. Another 60 per cent would be reserved for hunting and fishing and other forms of wilderness recreation and 30 per cent would remain "forever wild."

More than 120 attended the dinner. Arthur Withall of Rifton, chairman of the Town of Esopus Democratic dinner committee, served as toastmaster. Supervisor Roger W. Mable introduced Stratton.

Older Couple Desire More Traveling Money

Q "We are both 75 years of age, both well and ready to go places, but would like more income to do so. We have 1,800 shares Investors Mutual, 273 Wells Fargo, 100 California Water and Telephone, 100 Martin-Marietta. Could you help us?" — W. K.

A) It is a source of real pleasure to help two people who are as young in heart and spirit as you are. You have a very good list of stocks, but I think you can raise your income moderately without sacrificing security. I suggest that you retain your Mutual Fund shares. These bring you a reasonable return if you include capital gains payments which have been relatively consistent. Martin-Marietta is a good stock now yielding over 4 per cent. I think it is unduly depressed, marketwise, and I would hold it.

There are some changes I might suggest, to improve income. You could switch Wells Fargo, yielding 2.2 per cent, into Bank of America, returning 3.4 per cent. Replacing California Water and Pacific Lighting would increase your yield from 2.7 per cent on the former to 4.15 per cent on the latter. The net result should be about $250 more income per year, which should help you to go places, as I certainly hope you will.

Q "Recently I bought quite a lot of Ford stock and it has continually gone down. What caused this? My family protested over my purchases, and now I'll be an old man before I break even. Do you think I have a big worry?" — J. B.

A) You bought a good stock, but your timing proved wrong. Two factors were responsible for the decline in Ford. One was the expectation of the stock split which brought on too much public enthusiasm and ran the shares up too fast. The other was the announcement that Ford Foundation would sell publicly another 2,500,000 shares of Ford common—which scared a lot of holders. I do not believe that you have a big worry. I consider Ford sound and I would not be frightened out of it in a poor market.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all questions possible in his column.

Variety of Cases In City Court

Third degree assault charges against David Brandon, 42, of 13 West Strand, and Elbin Ortiz, 26, of 14 Ann Street, brought last month by Louis Green, of North Street and the accusation by Brandon that Green had taken $34 from him, were voided in city court today by apparent mutual consent.

Green charged that Brandon and Ortiz had assaulted him last March 17 on East Strand near Hasbrouck Avenue, and Brandon later accused Green of taking the money. City Judge Joseph D. Saccoman dismissed the charges after it was indicated that prosecution was not deemed.

A suspended sentence of six months in jail was imposed on Mary E. Gross, 52, of Route 5, Box 127 Sunset Terrace, Lucas Avenue Extension, who was charged with violating the unemployment insurance law.

It was noted that restitution had been made for several payments involved and sentence was suspended on the condition that payment of a balance be made. Attorney Thomas Rea appeared for the defendant.

Kenneth Wells Jr., 25, of 50 Hunter Street, charged with unlawful intrusion Saturday night, was given a suspended sentence of 30 days in jail. The charge was lodged by Minnie Ellsworth of East Union Street.

A third degree assault charge against William Williams, 21, of 86 Chambers Street, was dismissed. Larry VanDyke, of Mill Street, was listed as the complainant.

Two drivers charged with speeding, Joseph J. Curchia, 19, of 254 Elmendorf Street, and Wayne A. Elmendorf, 18, of 106 Farrelly Street, were fined $15 each.

Court Refuses To Rule on Tax Questions Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court refused today to consider an appeal challenging constitutionality of tax exemptions granted church properties by states.

The high tribunal also declined to rule on validity of state tax exemptions granted to veterans' organizations, Gold Star parents, cemeteries and some university professors.

Final rulings were asked in an appeal by General Finance Corp., owner of real estate in Cranston, R.I., on which the city levied a tax of $842.

The firm figured its tax would have been about $30 less if the various tax exemptions had not been granted by the state. Its attack on constitutionality of such exemptions was rejected by the Rhode Island Supreme Court.

Left-Overs Yield New Cancer Drug

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Writer
ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Housewife-like attention by scientists to laboratory left-overs has yielded a new and promising drug in the cancer-fighting field, it was reported today.

The development concerns a new drug produced from the periwinkle plant, a widely used decorative flowering shrub.

The drug—called both "vincristine" and "leurocristine"—has shown promising activity against a variety of malignancies.

It appears to have some unique characteristics when compared with older anticancer chemicals, said reports made to the annual meeting of the American Association for Cancer Research.

But it might never have been turned up if scientists had not paid attention to left-overs in the laboratory. Several years ago, the periwinkle plant yielded a drug that has been found useful in the treatment of Hodgkin's disease—a cancer-like condition.

But, researchers of the Eli Lilly Co. of Indianapolis, who developed the original drug, kept studying the waste material from the periwinkle.

They found that the left-overs had the power to prolong indefinitely the lives of mice implanted with an experimental leukemia. Out of this crude material which protected the mice, Lilly researchers eventually extracted various key chemicals, including vincristine.

In the reports, the drug was described as having shown some effect in temporarily slowing or halting various kinds of malignancies in both children and adults. Preliminary evidence indicates that the drug may have unique powers of attacking malignant cells, while sparing normal cells.

Brown at Lake Placid

John Brown, the fiery abolitionist whose raid at Harper's Ferry helped precipitate the Civil War, is buried near Lake Placid. His grave is on a farm he owned now maintained by the state as a historic site. It is described in New York State Vacationlands, a free 192-page guide issued by the New York State Department of Commerce, 112 State Street, Albany 7.

Natives of the Bahamas beat the long leaves of the cactus-like sisal plant into hemp, dye it and weave it into highly colored baskets, belts and hats.

Two Area Tourist Sites Attract Over Half Million

Ten New York State tourist attractions will have a million or more visitors this year. Each of them was visited by well over a million people last year and in each case the attendance records have shown a constant rise. Eleven additional places including two in the Hudson Valley, will attract audiences of more than a half-million and in some cases the record is so close to a million that this year may well see them move into the top bracket.

In an effort to find the answer to the constantly recurring question "What is the most popular attraction in the Empire State?" the New York State Department of Commerce studied the attendance records of 250 places popular with vacation travelers. The records show that New York literally counts its sight-seers and vacation travelers by the millions. Surprisingly, animals and culture share equal honors as top drawing cards. A zoo and two museums are at the head of the list.

Bronx Zoo Popular

The New York Zoological Park, more popularly known as the "Bronx Zoo," was visited last year by 2½ million people. The Metropolitan Museum of Art and the American Museum of Natural History, both in New York City, each reported slightly over 2 million visitors. A marked increase in attendance at museums has been noted throughout the country.

Horse racing takes an easy first place as the most popular spectator sport in the Empire State. The three tracks operated by the New York State Racing Association had a combined attendance of 5½ million. Six harness racing tracks were attended by more than two million.

Highest attendance reported by an amusement center was that of Freedomland, U.S.A., in the Bronx, which drew 1,750,000 visitors in its second year of operation. Playland at Rye, operated by the Westchester County Parks, had an attendance of 1½ million.

Other places which attracted more than a million visitors were Brooklyn Botanic Garden, the Empire State Building, New York Botanical Gardens, Niagara Falls and Jones Beach. The United Nations Building, the Statue of Liberty and the St. Lawrence Seaway each had attendance just under a million. Carnegie Hall and The Cloisters, both in New York City, were visited by three-quarters of a million.

Coming in Industry Tour
Most popular industrial tour was the Corning Glass Center which surpassed the half-million mark and was well on the way to the three-quarter million figure.

In the half-million or more category were Hayden Planetarium, Museum of Modern Art, New York Stock Exchange, Rockefeller Center, Staten Island Zoo.

There were 14 places which attracted a quarter-million or more visitors last year and which expect to do at least as well this season. One religious institution, the Shrine of the North American Martyrs, at Auriesville, and one military one, Old Fort Niagara, at Youngstown, are in this group. Brooklyn scores three times with the Brooklyn Academy of Music, Brooklyn Children's Museum and Brooklyn Museum. Buffalo is represented by its Museum of Science, Syracuse by Burnet Park Zoo and Utica by the Munson-Williams Proctor Institute.

Two sites in the Hudson Valley administered by the National Park Service, the Franklin D. Roosevelt and Vanderbilt Mansions at Hyde Park, are visited by more than a half-million and so is Sterling Forest Gardens at Tuxedo. In New York City the General Grant Memorial, the Museum of the City of New York, the Aquarium and the Whitney Museum of Modern Art are visited by more than a quarter-million.

The growing interest in camping, observed throughout the nation, was reflected in New York State. At 37 state campsites in the Adirondacks and Catskills the Conservation Department registered 1,897,000 campers. Attendance at the 85 state parks was more than 22 million.

Fact

Originally the term chaperone did not refer to an adult supervising a party or even to an elderly lady accompanying a young girl in public places. Before the 16th century a chaperone or chaperon was a cap or hood worn by noblemen and Knights of the Garter.

Area Schools Are Represented at Food Conference

More than 150 school lunch directors and school business managers attended the biennial School Lunch Directors Conference Friday and Saturday at the Sheraton-Ten Eyck Hotel, Albany, sponsored by the State Education Department. The program emphasized greater coordination between the school lunch director and school business manager.

John W. Johnson, director of the lunch program for the Kingston City School District (Consolidated), and three others in charge of lunches for schools in the area attended the conference: Mrs. Rita Mataraza, director Marlboro Schools; Mrs. Taimi Reip, director, Rondout Valley School and Mrs. Betty Jane Barringer, manager, Ontonagon Central School.

Arthur A. Froman, author of "Five Steps to Effective Institutional Food Buying," William D. Krafchuk, operator of the food service at New York International, La Guardia and Boston Airports and Frank Irving of the Treadway Inns Corporation were among the guest speakers. Topics discussed were food merchandising, purchasing and specifications for quality foods and good business procedures. Training personnel to provide efficient management was presented by Mrs. Mary Resch, program specialist, U. S. Office of Education, Washington, D. C.

Current information concerning school preparedness for mass feeding in emergencies was presented by Raymond D. Hunter, coordinator of civil defense for schools, State Education Department.

School lunch programs operate in 3721 schools in New York State. Under the National School Lunch Act schools provide 1/2 to 3/4 of the daily nutritional needs of children and utilize the commodities in plentiful supply to improve the nation's agricultural economy.

—a word to be used sparingly since few subjects qualify for its description. The sun; the stars; the moon—of course!

Some earthly things, however, while not to be considered even in the same breath, do endure the acid test of time. These things usually have value or they would not have survived. For example, a good bank is not unlike a good book. The value of both is discovered anew with each successive generation.

There are two good things in life, freedom of thought and freedom of action.

The farmhouse was quite small and the many friends and relatives who had come from miles around for old Sam's funeral crowded it. One woman who hadn't been there for some time looked around the room curiously.

Woman (pointing to a corner of the room) -- Why, Jane, when did you get the new grandfather's clock?

Widow -- That ain't no clock. That's Sam. We stood his coffin on end to make more room.

Now is the time for all good men to come to.

The gas company, he declared, has played an integral part in all developments of the community. I might well say, to make a pun, Honor the Light Brigade! To this, a long-suffering customer shouted. Oh, what a charge they made!

The city election was coming up and the politician was out canvassing for votes.

THE STORY OF MARTHA WAYNE

Hollywood News, Views

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Marlon Brando has a timely tip for today: Taxes are unfair.

The thought may have occurred to you as you mailed a deadline check to Uncle Sam.

Favors Axe Rich
But Brando's viewpoint is different: He doesn't think he is taxed enough.

His comments just came out in the conversation on "The Ugly American" set.

"The whole tax setup is unfair," he mused. "It favors the rich guy. Anybody who is well enough off to set up a corporation doesn't have to pay the same taxes that the little guy does."

"Look at me," he said. "I don't know how I would be considered—rich, well-to-do or what. I've made a lot of money. The point is that I can keep what I make. That's the only thing I made on 'Marty' on the 'Bounty'—I just folded it into a paper airplane and sailed it to the oil fields. It was as simple as that."

"The principle, I suppose, is that the wealthy put their money back into industry and thus add to the general economy," he said.

"All I know is that the little guy—the people I work with and friends of mine who aren't well off—can't save a dime."

Meanwhile, back at the studio, Brando is happily working in "The Ugly American," wearing a mustache and clothes made by President Kennedy's tailor. He plays the American ambassador to a Southeast Asian nation.

Happy With Film
He says he is happy "because it's such a pleasure to be working in a picture which has a shooting schedule, a finished script and which you know you will be free of in nine weeks."

You may recall that his last film, "Bounty," was not so appointed. In fact, there have been reports that he will be asked to go back for yet some more re-takes. Brando's comment on that cannot appear in family newspapers.

His future plans: "As soon as the picture is over, I am going down to the plastics institute and I am going to have them make a mold of my rear. Then I will have this mold built into a rocking chair and I am going to sit and rock for 10 years."

First Shad, Bass Caught
Eugene Van Steenburgh, a shad fisherman, reported the first local catch of shad and striped bass. He made both catches at noon Sunday. The shad weighed five pounds and the bass 10 pounds.

Magnificent City

No other ancient city equalled the magnificence of King Nebuchadnezzar's Babylon. Today, only foundations remain of the city's Hanging Gardens, one of the seven ancient wonders, and the banquet hall where Belshazzar saw the handwriting on the wall.

Frost Gives His Observation at Party in Honor

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Frost arched his bushy white head, and proclaimed: "There's more poetry outside of verse than in, more religion outside of church than in and more love outside of marriage than in."

The salty-tongued 88-year-old poet made the remark Sunday while reading chapter and verse on a whole variety of topics before a group gathered to do him honor.

Frost was honored by a Manhattan branch of the Young Men's and Young Women's Hebrew Association as "America's leading poet, one who speaks with a clear strong voice of strength and compassion."

At the gathering afterward, Frost spoke with a clear strong voice of strength and compassion.

On charges that America is becoming soft: "There is nothing so gentle as strength."

On leadership: "You have to find a person that is a little high-handed, a little outrageous and one who will take the hint from the people."

Frost, who read some of his poetry at President Kennedy's inauguration, was full of praise for the President as a man who has "some poetry in him."

Cesare Rocca Not Dead, Married to Ethiopian Woman

NICASTRO, Italy (AP)—Every day for 22 years Anna Rocca placed flowers on the local tomb of the unknown soldier in memory of her soldier son.

Cesare Rocca went off to war in 1936 as a member of Benito Mussolini's black-shirt troops in Ethiopia. His last letter was written in June 1940. After the war the Defense Ministry ruled him lost and awarded Mrs. Rocca a monthly pension of 10,000 lire—$16.

Over the weekend a letter arrived from Ethiopia, from Cesare to his brother, Vincenzo. Now 52, Cesare said he had married an Ethiopian woman and had two sons. He gave no explanation for his long silence but said he planned to come home soon to see his mother.

16 Accidental Deaths in State

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A would-be burglar who slipped and fell to his death from a sixth-floor fire escape and a chemist overcome by fumes in a laboratory were among the 16 persons who met accidental deaths in New York State over the weekend.

Traffic accidents took 12 lives during the period from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday night.

The dead included two young sailors whose automobile left a highway and smashed into a tree. A New York City man and his infant niece perished in a fire that swept a Harlem apartment.

New York City police said the intended victims of the burglary on Manhattan's Lower East Side Friday night screamed when they saw someone rip away a half-screen and push aside a venetian blind at the window to their apartment.

The screams startled the man and he lost his grip on the fire escape and fell to the ground. He has not been identified.

At Rochester, Paul E. Kennedy, 38, of Rochester, a chemist at the Eastman Kodak Co. Research Laboratory, collapsed and died Saturday as he mixed chemicals in a large kettle in the laboratory.

Two Sailors Killed

The sailors killed in the auto accident on the Bronx River Parkway Saturday were Christopher Roche, 19, of the Bronx and Gerald Nardelli, also 19, of Eastchester. Police said the two apparently were en route to the Brooklyn Navy Yard where they were stationed.

Harry Spruill, 22, and Sandra Dee Collins, 7 months, perished in the Harlem tenement fire Saturday night. The infant was the daughter of Spruill's sister, Mrs. Noretta Collins.

Other fatal accidents, by community:

Painted Post—Milton S. Goitry, 30, of Painted Post, car struck a tree Friday night.

Albion—Willie Foster, 39, a farm worker, struck by a car Saturday night.

Patchogue—Linda Gemmell, 22, of Brookhaven, car overturned Saturday night.

Rochester—Robert E. Stevens, 60, of Rochester, two-car collision Saturday night.

East Hampton—Joseph Meade, 19, of Montauk, car overturned Saturday night.

New York—James Lund, 6, of West Brighton, Staten Island, struck by a car as he crossed a street near his home Sunday.

Rochester—Louis Santucci, 29, of East Rochester, car left county road near Penfield Sunday and struck an embankment.

New City—Earl W. Milligan, 26, of Marietta, Ga., car overturned Sunday on the Palisades Interstate Parkway.

Fishkill—M. Gail E. Staples, 23, of Pearl River, two-car collision on Route 9 Sunday night.

New York—Daniel Hammel, 23, of the Bronx, car skidded into a retaining wall in Central Park Sunday night.

Laborer Charged With Running Down His Wife

GOVERNEUR, N.Y. (AP)—A paper company laborer argued with his wife in a restaurant and then ran into her with an automobile and killed her, State Police said.

Kenneth L. Woods, 24, of Gouverneur, was charged with second degree murder. Troopers said he had signed a statement in which he admitted running down his wife, Ruth 22, as she walked along the highway Sunday.

Woods was arraigned before a justice of the peace in Canton and waived examination. He was committed to the St. Lawrence County jail, pending grand jury action.

According to police, Woods told this story:

He and his wife had argued in a restaurant on Route 58 south of here. Woods left the restaurant and drove toward home. He had gone only a short distance when he turned around to go back for his wife.

He saw her walking in the highway about 200 yards north of the restaurant and deliberately ran into her.

The Woods had been married four years. They had no children.

Students Against Lottery, Raise In Drinking Age

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — College students who attended a four-day mock legislative session at the State Capitol are opposed to a state lottery to support schools and to raising the minimum drinking age from 18 to 21.

A total of 170 students from 28 colleges in the state attended the 12th annual intercollegiate Mock Senate, which ended Sunday.

The lottery to raise money to pay for construction and operation of public schools was proposed by St. Joseph's College of Brooklyn.

But opponents contended that such a fund-raising device would tend to degrade the educational system. They also argued that the state was able to support schools through taxes.

Good Counsel College of White Plains introduced the measure to raise the legal drinking age, but supporters could find little backing for the plan.

In the five states that border New York, the minimum drinking age is 21. The states have been urging New York to raise its minimum. The question is under study by a legislative committee.

Among the delegates to the session was Mrs. Constance O. Swanson of Jamestown, a 41-year-old grandmother, who is a senior home economics student at the State University College at Buffalo. She plans to teach in high school after she graduates this year.

Meeting Changed
The meeting of the Ulster County Chapter, Civil Service Employees Association will be held on Monday, April 30, instead of April 23.

Walk to School
The Dutchess County community of Tivoli has no school bus problems. It needs no buses because all of the children live in the village and walk to school.

South Had 13 Cards Anyhow

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

This week's series will cover common mistakes in bidding and play and I will start with a hum-dinger.

South's first mistake was his four spade bid. With a solid five card suit he really should have let his partner play three no-trump, although four spades should have been just as successful a contract.

His second mistake was to rush ahead with his play without planning how to gather in his 10 tricks and his third and most serious mistake was to pull trumps too soon.

He won the opening heart in dummy, drew four rounds of trumps while discarding a heart and a club from dummy, led the deuce of diamonds and stuck in dummy's ten. East won with the king and played a second heart to put South in dummy again.

A low diamond from dummy lost to the ace whereupon South smiled happily and said, "Over-trick coming up, partner."

He was just as wrong in his analysis as in his play. East led a third heart and South had to use his last trump to ruff. Now he cashed dummy's queen of diamonds and suddenly found that the only other trick he could make would be the ace of clubs. He had no way to get to the two good diamonds in his hand.

If South had bothered to plan his play at trick two he would have led a diamond from dummy without caring about who had the high ones. He would have continued diamonds each time he got in and there would have been no defense to beat him.

Improved Enforcement Of Conservation Law

MINETTO, N.Y. (AP) — The state conservation commissioner says improved enforcement of the conservation law is expected to result from a state wide radio network being established among game protectors.

Commissioner Harold G. Wim, speaking at the annual meeting of the Oswego County Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs Saturday night, said the department planned a system that would include main control stations at Albany and Buffalo and at each of the nine regional equipment offices. Radios are to be installed in 199 automobiles of fish-and-game protectors and other department personnel and in 16 patrol boats.

The radio equipment, Wim said, "will double or triple the effectiveness of each game protector."

The 1962 Legislature authorized the department to spend $200,000 this year on the network. The total estimated cost is $550,000. The program is to be completed next year.

State Employees Federation Says Rocky Anti-Union

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A union, representing state employees, charges that Gov. Rockefeller failed to support their union rights and condoned "immoral support of a known company union."

Jean Couturier, executive director of Council 50, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, said Sunday the council would ask the federation to brand Rockefeller "anti-union" at its national convention in Milwaukee, May 1-5.

Rockefeller, in Detroit for a speech today, declined to comment on the charges.

Couturier said the council would introduce two resolutions at the convention. One would attack the governor for his "refusal to take action on employee grievance rights," despite repeated union pleas, Couturier said.

The other, he said, was based on Rockefeller's "knowing and calculated support" of the Civil Service Employees Association. Couturier said the association organized employees through "the gimmick of peddling insurance on state time, property and facilities."

Council 50 claims about 55,000 members in the state. There are about 100,000 state employees.

New Treatment

During 1961, the U. S. Agricultural Research Service developed a treatment that shrinkproofs wool fabrics and makes them safely washable in machines, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

24-Hour Repair Job Being Done On Seaway Lock

MASSENA, N.Y. (AP)—Round-the-clock repair operations were under way today on the Eisenhower Lock of the St. Lawrence Seaway to seal a crack 80 feet long that is expected to delay opening of the waterway by two weeks.

The seaway was scheduled to open for the season Sunday. The crack, in the lock sill, was discovered Thursday after the east gate of the lock vibrated during tests.

Joseph McCann, administrator of the St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corp., announced Sunday that the contract for the repairs had been awarded to Merritt, Chapman and Scott and that work had begun at once. The Army Corps of Engineers is supervising.

The opening has been scheduled tentatively for April 29.

All the water has been pumped from the lock.

McCann said holes would be drilled at four-foot intervals on both sides of the concrete sill about 100 feet below the top of the lock. Steel pins will be driven into the holes and concrete will be forced into the crack under pressure.

To forestall similar delays in the future, McCann said, the U.S. seaway agency is starting a program of preventive maintenance. As part of the program, the Snell Lock, a companion to the Eisenhower Lock, had been drained for a complete inspection.

"We might as well close up our tents if we don't have the confidence of the shippers," McCann commented.

During the first two weeks after the April 15 Seaway opening last year, about 100 ships passed through. About the same number are expected to be delayed this year, waiting for the repairs on the Eisenhower Lock to be completed.

Romney Is Dinner Guest of Rocky at Detroit on Sunday

DETROIT, Mich. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York flew into Detroit Sunday night and played dinner host to George Romney.

Rockefeller was here to deliver an address today before the Economic Club of Detroit, but used the occasion to strengthen what had been only a casual acquaintance with the former American Motors Corp. president, who is now the Republican party's most likely candidate for governor of Michigan.

The New York governor, Romney and two GOP national committeemen — John B. Martin of Michigan and George Hilman of New York — conferred for two hours over dinner in Rockefeller's hotel suite. Rockefeller is a potential candidate for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination.

Newsman were excluded from the session, and Rockefeller had no comment on the meeting. Romney said later they discussed "mutual state problems."

IT'S CLEANUP TIME AGAIN

Yes, it's cleanup time, all across America, and you and your neighbors will be burning last year's grass, old papers, trash, and the piles of limbs from the trees that fell last winter.

Smokey Bear says that careless debris burning is one of the principal causes of forest fires, year after year.

So when you're ready to strike that match, won't you heed SMOKEY's simple rules?

1. Check with your local fire warden or fire department before you burn! You may need a permit for any fire outdoors!
2. Have tools, water, and enough help to be sure your fire can't get away!
3. Don't burn on dry, windy days, when fires run fast and sparks and embers fly!
4. Never leave a fire—any fire—burning unattended!

Remember—only YOU can PREVENT FOREST FIRES!

Easter Story Has Impact Beyond Ability of Actors

AP Television-Radio Writer NEW YORK (AP) — Producers of NBC's "Project 20" programs have developed a simple, dramatic and marvelously impressive technique for the re-telling of a great and familiar story.

In Sunday night's "He Is Risen," the story of the Crucifixion, the narration was appropriately in the soaring prose style of the King James version of the Bible. The visual portion consisted of color film of great religious paintings by artists of the Middle Ages and Renaissance.

The cameras, sometimes in closeups of faces, sometimes traveling slowly over a broad canvas, sometimes showing the whole, moved the story inexorably from the return of Lazarus from the grave to the triumph of the Resurrection.

Seen through the eyes of the masters—Rembrandt, Titian, El Greco, Van Dyck, Rubens, to mention only a few—the Easter story had impact and power beyond a mere dramatization by actors. Not the least fascinating aspect of the program was the varied ways in which the painters depicted Jesus—so many different faces—and yet all with the same sweet, spiritual quality.

Some Credit Lacking To inject one critical note about a thoroughly praiseworthy undertaking: it did seem graceless of "Project 20" not to include even small credit lines identifying the old masters or a nod to Matthew, Mark, Luke and John amid all the billboarding of producer, director, narrator and a long list of museums housing the unidentified art works.

"Action in New Orleans," was that rare television commodity, an original comedy, and it turned up on NBC's "Show of the Week" Sunday night.

This was a promising and jaunty little tale of a master con man, the "Alabama Wonder," and his attempts to swindle a lone-some and rich Ohio widow out of $70,000.

The action began entertainingly enough, with Bob Cummings playing the confidence man setting up an elaborate plot to relieve the widow (Audrey Meadows) of her

Cornell, London Universities Plan Study on Asia

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — Cornell University and the University of London will cooperate in a program of graduate study of the societies of China and Southeast Asia.

Cornell announced Sunday that its share of the $600,000 total cost would be covered by a grant from the Carnegie Corp. of New York City. The Nuffield Foundation will support participation by the University of London.

Nearly 50 members of the faculties of the two schools will take part in the program, which is to include the social economic and political institutions of China and Southeast Asia.

Students at Cornell planning to do research in Hong Kong, Malaya, British Borneo, Burma or Tibetan borderlands will work under the auspices of the London School. London students planning research in Taiwan, the Philippines, Thailand or Indonesia will work under Cornell's direction.

In another development, Cornell announced it was establishing a professorship under a grant from International Business Machines Corp. The university said it was its first professorship endowed by industry.

The income from a permanent endowment will support the chair in the engineering college. A professor has not been named. The amount of the grant was not disclosed.

School Land Sale Comes to Vote at Meeting Tuesday

A special meeting of voters of the Saugerties Central School District will be held Tuesday, 8 p. m. at Main Street School to vote on the proposed sale of three and a half acres of school property to Knaust Brothers Inc.

The property, on the northeast section of the Saugerties High School site, is sought by the Knaust firm for a proposed golf course. Sum of $4,000 is sought by the school for the land.

Conservation Is Little Gardens Society Topic

At the regular meeting of the Saugerties Society of Little Gardens Wednesday in the parish room of the Saugerties Reformed Church, guests from Kingston, Woodstock, New Paltz and Scotia were welcomed by the president, Mrs. David Jones.

A communication from the Saugerties Jaycees was read announcing their spring project Operation Pride which is intended to promote individual and mass pride in the appearance of the community. Club members indicated interest in this project and the subject will be reviewed at the next meeting.

Mrs. Kenneth Robinson, of New Paltz, county chairman, Third District, of ways and means extended greetings and reported a successful meeting of the Third District at Claverack April 4. Mrs. George Sawatz, local chairman, who assisted Mrs. Robinson at the district meeting, was also in charge of a ways and means table at the meeting.

Mrs. Lambert D. LeMaire of Scotia, as guest speaker presented a talk on Conservation. Mrs. LeMaire pointed out that the water table is a most serious problem for the whole country. The loss of trees, due to new building and developing, plus the loss in so many areas for the super highways, also the use of air-conditioners, contribute greatly to this condition.

The use of tobacco clippings around the plants infected with the Japanese Beetle is successful in getting rid of them. The beetle is known to infect an area for seven years, then moves on to another place, but never is known to return to the first place infected.

Mrs. LeMaire spoke of the balance maintained in the ways of nature. The bugs, frogs, toads, birds, praying mantis, bees, even the snake, and many others accomplish a purpose in the garden by destroying the creatures that are known to infect gardens. Mrs. LeMaire closed with the reminder that the Great Out Doors spells G. O. D.

At the close of the meeting tea was served by the hostesses, Mrs. Albert Smith, Mrs. Frank White, Mrs. Augustus Modjeska and Miss Adeline Lechner. The club will meet April 25 at the home of Mrs. Herman Knaust. A program on Birds will be given by Mrs. Joseph Keenan.

X-Ray Steel Industry

Grand Jury, Justice, Congress To Explore Steel Operation

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government specialists will now X-ray the corporate intestines of the steel industry which got indigestion from the way it chewed on a good, old-fashioned word like competition.

A federal grand jury, the Department of Justice and Congress will explore the industry's inroads to determine whether it has a malignancy or needs an operation.

All within a week—in an almost incredibly inept performance which President Kennedy called greedy and ruthless—most of Big Steel raised prices and then unraised them.

One of the reasons given for the increase last Tuesday by Leslie B. Worthington, president of the U.S. Steel Corp. which set up price boosts, was that his company needed money to keep its steel mills efficient because that's the only way "to keep these facilities fully competitive."

The other companies in the industry, once U.S. Steel stuck its neck out with a price increase, could have given it murderous competition by not increasing their prices and underselling the giant.

Raise Is the Same
Most of them did just the opposite. They raised by exactly the same amount as U.S. Steel. How did it happen? If it was all agreed on, the industry can be prosecuted by the government for conspiracy.

Or is U.S. Steel so dominant that the other companies must follow suit? Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy says that if U.S. Steel controls prices, it may have to be broken up.

These are just two of the questions the various branches of government will examine in the months ahead.

Then one of the smaller companies, Inland Steel, whose board chairman, Joseph L. Block, is close to President Kennedy, refused to go along with the rest and said it would not raise prices.

It said that while prices might not be high enough, the national interest came first.

Then U.S. Steel and the others which had boosted prices because of competitive conditions — although they could hardly have been hurt by Inland's competition — suddenly put their prices back where they were.

Washington Explains
Worthington gave this explanation:

"The decision (to unraise) was made in the light of competitive development and all other current circumstances, including the removal of a serious obstacle to proper relations between government and business."

So all within four days U.S. Steel said it had to raise prices because of competition and had to unraise prices because of competition.

But the true ineptness of the industry's performance was revealed in the last half of Worthington's statement about "other circumstances" and "relations with government."

It can be fairly asked: If these were major factors in steel's decision to unraise prices, why didn't they think of them before they did any raising at all?

The raising was done within five days after the Steelworkers' Union—following an appeal by Kennedy to both sides for a non-inflationary settlement—had signed a contract which gave some benefits but no pay increase.

No Hint of Increase
The industry gave no hint or indication that, once it got the workers to agree to no raise, it intended to fatten its own pockets by raising prices. This alone would have been enough to ruin its labor relations for years.

But it was enough also to ruin its relations with the government and the public since the industry gave Kennedy no hint of a move which was bound to affect all prices and raise American living costs.

From a practical public relations standpoint—in its relations all around—the least it should have done was to wait a decent interval of some months before trying to put over a price increase.

It's unbelievable that the U.S. Steel board of directors, meeting within five days of the contract signing, suddenly became convinced a price rise, despite all its implications, was necessary. That kind of flash decision would have been, for a giant industry, completely irresponsible, as Kennedy says it was anyway.

Two KHS Students Will Attend Summer Institute at Alfred

Two high school students from the Kingston area have been accepted as students in the Junior Engineers' and Scientists' Summer Institute to be conducted at Alfred University, Alfred, N. Y., from June 24 through July 7.

The students are: Miss Donna L. Pratt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth C. Pratt, "Suncrest," Bloomington, N. Y.; and Miss Linda S. Ropp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Raymond Ropp, R. D. 4, Kingston, N. Y. Both girls will enter the 11th grade next fall at Kingston High School.

The program is designed to give the girls an understanding of what the science and engineering areas encompass, the program of studies leading to a degree in one of the fields, and careers open to graduates. Its purpose is to supplement to high school guidance by helping the students determine whether they have the interest and ability for careers in science or engineering.

The girls will spend approximately five hours a day in classroom and laboratory work. They will live and eat in University dormitories.

Dr. John L. Stull, assistant professor of physics, is Associate Director of the Institute here, one of 17 organized at colleges and universities across the nation under auspices of Scientists of Tomorrow. Five are exclusively for girls.

RISE STEVENS

Rise Stevens Coming to Kingston April 23; Closes Current Community Concerts Series

Rise Stevens, glamorous American star of opera, concerts, radio, television, movies and recordings, will conclude the current series of programs for members of the Kingston Community Concert Association Monday night, April 23, 8-30 p. m. at the Community Theatre, Broadway. Admission is by membership card only and no tickets are sold. Memberships were completely subscribed for the season last spring but arrangements for membership in next year's series may be made with Mrs. Louis Keger, Mrs. Bernard Forst or Mrs. Lloyd LeFever.

Miss Stevens began her career at the age of ten as a youthful prima donna on a children's radio program. In her teens, she sang with the Opera Comique at the Heckscher Theatre in New York and studied with Mme.

Schoen-Rene and at Juilliard School of Music. After winning the Met Opera Auditions of the Air she declined a contract with the opera company until she had more experience. She went abroad to study and made her operatic debut at Prague Opera House. Success in other roles as well brought her invitations from opera companies all over the world and she debuted the following winter at the Met.

In the movies Miss Stevens debuted with Nelson Eddy in "The Chocolate Soldier" and later appeared opposite Bing Crosby in the Academy Award winning movie "Going My Way," and in "Carnegie Hall."

She has made innumerable recordings for Columbia and RCA Victor. She is considered the highest selling recording artist in the classical field today.

She has had many operas revived especially for her by the Met Opera including "Orfeo," "Deiliah" and "Khovantchina." She made world-wide news when the Met mounted for her the brilliant new production of "Carmen" as staged by Tyrone Guthrie. "Carmen" became the first opera to be televised from Met stage on closed-circuit to the screens of movie theatres in 50 cities. Last year she was the only prima donna to sing at the ground-breaking ceremony for the New York Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts.

Miss Stevens holds the box-office record with the Met Opera. KHS Choir Concert May 11 and 12; Will Sing Requiem Mass

The "Requiem" by Gabriel Faure will be the main feature of the annual Kingston High School choir concert, to be presented May 11th and 12th during National Music Week.

Considered one of the most beautiful examples of choral literature, this work is a favorite with professional as well as skilled amateur groups. There are seven main sections to the "Requiem"—1. Introit and Kyrie, 2. Offertory, 3. Sanctus, 4. Pie Jesu, 5. Agnus Dei, 6. Libera Me, and 7. In Paradisum. In addition to the choral sections, Faure included in the score soprano and baritone solos which will be sung by Jean Wells and Kenneth Becker, both seniors at Kingston High School.

Faure was French in nationality, background, and training and was an eminent organist in several churches in Paris in the latter part of the nineteenth century. The "Requiem" was composed in 1887, and first performed at the Church of the Madeleine on January 16, 1888. It is marked by unusual harmonic progressions and melodic lines of classic purity. According to musical authorities and critics, no more elegant and tender music has ever been written.

In addition to the "Requiem", the choir concert will include several choruses from Haydn's "Creation", some contemporary numbers, and selections from a Broadway Musical.

Tickets may be purchased from any member of the choir.

The Mature Parent

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Youth's Actions Suggest He Sees No Worthy Goal

Dear Mrs. Lawrence:

Since flunking out of college last year my nephew has not tried to continue his education or get a job but hangs around the house all day. The situation is killing my sister. Her husband is a very successful businessman and picks on the boy all the time, trying to shame him into looking for work. Then the boy will lock himself in his room, refusing to come out even for meals. If my sister says anything my brother-in-law turns on her and accuses her of coddling her son into this condition.

ANSWER: Let her ask her family doctor to recommend a psychiatric consultation for this boy.

Has your sister's home ever been a happy one? Or has it always been one of such secret resentment and discontent? If it has always been such a lonely place, it is not hard to understand your nephew's resistance to effort. Our children are stern moral judges. If we have devoted all our energies to maintaining the material comforts of a home that denies its members human closeness, our children may lose interest in earning the money required to establish homes of their own.

They will resist any effort lest it produce that "success" of which we are so proud. They will flunk out of colleges to express their contempt for the money the colleges cost. They may hang around the house all day doing nothing because doing something has produced no satisfying meaning for anyone.

Psychiatric treatment can help your nephew to separate his resistance to effort from his distrust of the results of his parents' effort.

I am aware that he may not get it. Seeking psychiatric help for a child is always a parent's confession of his own limitations. Your sister and brother-in-law may not be able to entertain the idea that their unhappiness may have made ambition worth less in their child's eyes. Afraid to face their own discontent, they'll run from the idea that he has noted it and has chosen to freeze his own ambitions lest they betray him into similar discontent. Yet to take this idea into themselves might prove a blessing to them.

In the middle age of us all, our failures begin to pile up on us. They pose the awful question: "Why?" We can wonder why our success gives us no joy. And in the child who is refusing to play our game of ambition and success recognize the stern moral judge who is asking, "With all your getting, you two, what have you really got?"

We are proud to announce a truly great artist—

CARDS FOR MARRIED WOMEN GRADUATES

Q: I am a senior in college and will be graduating this June. We are ordering our announcements and personal cards. A few of the students are married women and the question has come up as to how their names should be printed on the cards that are to be enclosed with the announcements. I am aware of the fact that Mrs. followed by woman's Christian name is incorrect, but in this instance Mrs. John Smith doesn't seem right. Would it be proper under these special circumstances to have the cards read Mrs. Jane Smith?

A: Under the circumstances you describe, cards reading Mrs. Jane Smith may be used with these announcements. They must not, however, be used later as visiting cards.

PAYING FOR THE GIRLS REFRESHMENTS

Q: One evening last week a group from my office, three men and three girls decided to ice skate. After skating we went somewhere for something to eat. While the girls were not around, one of the men suggested to me and the third man that we split the check between us as he didn't think it proper to let the girls pay. As the girls were not our guests I didn't see why we should pay for them, but not wanting to appear cheap, I went along with the others. I would like to know if, in a situation of this kind, it would have been improper to let the girls pay for their own refreshments.

A: Properly the men should pay for the refreshments of the girls they are with, unless it has been decided beforehand that they are all going Dutch Treat.

Engaged Wedding Attendants

Q: My daughter is engaged to a man who is going to be the best man at a friend's wedding. Is she supposed to be included at dinners and other parties given for the bride party? I think she should be just the same as a wife always is, but there seems to be some difference of opinion about this.

A: You are right. If your daughter's engagement has been announced, she should be invited to all dinners and parties at which her fiancé is to be present.

Wearing White for a Second Marriage

Q: I am going to be married this summer and I would like very much to wear a white suit, white hat and white shoes, but I have been married before and have been told white is absolutely taboo for a second marriage. Will you please tell me if this is so?

What Grows on Skid Rows?

Jack S. started out as a pretty nice guy. He seemed headed for all kinds of success. Instead, he hit the skids before he was 35.

Jack wound up just one of many nameless drunks, lost in a big city's lonely streets. He leaves Skid Row now only for a few hours a day. He looks for better hunting grounds where he can pan-handle quarters for his next drink.

Disgusting? No. Jack is sick. He is ravaged by two diseases, alcoholism and TB.

Jack S. is typical of many homeless men who inhabit the Skid Row of all our big cities. Last year, chest X-rays were taken of 9,000 men who slept in New York City's Men's Shelter during 1960. According to an article in The American Review of Respiratory Diseases, their X-rays turned up a total of 144 cases of active TB.

This adds up to the "phenomenally high rate of 16 per 1,000" men examined. The rate among the general public is less than one per 1,000, which is serious enough.

The germs that grow on Skid Row represent a potential threat to all big city residents. What can be done about this problem? "Present tuberculosis control measures . . . fall far short of what is needed to eradicate the disease," concludes The American Review.

The article recommends: "More and better hospitals for Skid Row residents. More help to get the men back to useful lives when they leave the hospital."

A comprehensive medical care program for Skid Row—including treatment for chronic alcoholism.

Such a program could go a long way toward wiping out TB on Skid Row.

Port Ewen Group Hears Views on Fluoridation Issue

A panel of local doctors presented views on fluoridation at the Wednesday night meeting of the Port Ewen Parent-Teacher Association.

Participation in the panel were Dr. Stephen McGrath, Dr. Morton Cohen and Dr. Paul Hovemann. A film, Science Fights Tooth Decay, was shown.

Dr. McGrath told how natural fluorides were discovered in the drinking water of many communities particularly in the West, many years ago. He explained that after many years of extensive research, scientists, doctors and dentists found a correlation between the fluorides and the lack of dental caries in the teeth of people drinking the water.

Dr. Hovemann said that there were no indications of anyone acquiring any disease or illness from the fluorides. Many questions from the audience were answered.

During the business meeting, Harry Hults, cubmaster of Pack 26 sponsored by the P-TA, made a plea for adult volunteers. The Pack charter should be renewed this month and a cubmaster and den mothers are needed.

Mrs. Roger Mabie on behalf of the Junior League of Kingston, thanked the mothers who helped with the weekly story hour at the Port Ewen Library. They are Mary Graves, Helen Oberkirsch, Anita Granitto, Mary Kirk, Jennie Blaha and Alberta Hawes. Mrs. Mabie was a reader also.

The following slate of officers for the coming year was presented by the nominating committee:

Mrs. Rudy Firmsbach, president; Mrs. Thomas Farrell, vice president; Mrs. Sterling Atkins, recording secretary; Miss Marie Sasso, treasurer; Miss Elaine Schwartz, Mrs. Thomas Farrell and Mrs. Harry Hults, delegates to the council with Robert Corcoran as an alternate, Mrs. Martin Oberkirsch will be representative to the board of education.

At the close of the meeting parents had an opportunity to purchase books for their children at the second annual book fair sponsored by the P-TA.

Tuesday 8 p. m. candidates for the board of education will speak at the Port Ewen town auditorium. They are Gifford Beal, Robert (Bob) Browning, Charles Rinschler, Thomas Lyle, Zale Lese, Julietta Netter and William Edelmuth. All interested persons may attend.

A pink and white theme decorated the refreshment table. Serving were Mrs. Robert Durkin, Mrs. Edward Carey and Mrs. Paul Bouche.

Phyllis W. Barlow, county home demonstration agent of the Ulster County Extension Service Association, submits the following article on spring lawn care.

"In Spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love" was written long before the origin of the suburbanite. Now it might go like this — "In Spring the man of the house starts plotting how he can have the best looking lawn in the tract."

The following recommendations are not guaranteed to give you the best lawn in the tract, but they will get your lawn off to a good start.

First of all, if you are going to do any seeding, this should be done as early as possible to take advantage of the moisture in the soil. For large areas, fall seeding is best. However, if careful attention is given to soil moisture, spring seeding of large areas can be successful. When you buy grass for new lawn areas or for reseeding bare spots, always select good quality seed from reputable seed companies. Application of lawn fertilizer in early spring before growth start is very important. For an established lawn you should apply one pound of nitrogen per 1000 square feet.

The first figure of the analysis on the fertilizer bag is the amount of nitrogen per 100 pounds of the fertilizer. For instance 10-6-4 equals 10 pounds nitrogen per 100 pounds fertilizer.

A 50 pound bag of 10-6-4 should be applied evenly over 5000 square feet of lawn surface. For an area to be seeded this rate should be doubled.

Weeds are often a problem in most lawns but don't give up. Chemicals, to be effective, must be applied evenly and at proper rates. For best results, always follow the manufacturer's suggestions.

Broadleaved weeds such as dandelion, plantain and similar weeds can be controlled with 2,4-D any time the air temperature is above freezing. Early fall treatment is especially good. Be careful to avoid spray drift coming in contact with ornamental plants.

Chickweed and clover can be controlled with a fall or spring treatment of Silvex (2, 4, 5-TP).

Crabgrass—There are several products on the market from which to choose. Arsenicals, chlordane, Dacthal and Zytan give good to excellent control if properly used. For control after the crabgrass appears disodium methyl arsonate, phenyl mercuries or potassium cyanate spray are recommended but should only be applied according to the manufacturer's recommendations.

For coarse weedy grasses there is no chemical that offers reasonable control. Digging them out is the only practical method of control.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—Profits may be a controversial word in political, labor and management circles today because of the ruckus over steel prices. But for the stockholders of five out of six corporations who have reported first quarter 1962 earnings to date, the comparison with a year ago is very pleasant indeed.

The first 195 corporations to report show net income after taxes averaging 19 per cent higher than in the first quarter of 1961.

Remember that business in general has been at, or near, record highs this year, while a year ago the recession was scraping bottom. And also remember that the 196 can only indicate a trend, since the great flood of earnings statements are yet to appear.

For a number of individual companies the percentage of increase is many times higher than the 19 per cent average, reflecting either an unusually strong position this year or a much worse than average showing in the early months of 1961.

The largest steel companies will be reporting their first quarter profits after Easter. But three smaller steel makers have announced already. Remember each has individual reasons for its comparative showing and can't be held representative of the industry. But here they are: Pittsburgh Steel went from a net loss of $1.2 million in the 1961 quarter to a profit of $1.5 million in 1962; Granite City Steel earnings rose 73 per cent and Lukens Steel's 156 per cent over the first quarter of 1961.

Of the 195 companies reporting reporting so far—many for quarters ending before March 31—only 32 show decreases from last year. This time there were nine companies operating at a loss against 25 in the 1961 period.

Combined the 195 show profits of $716,965,000, compared with $902,926,000 for the same companies in the year ago period.

The giant Bell Telephone System makes up almost half of the total earnings. Its gain was 10 per cent. Without it the other 194 have an increase of 27.7 per cent.

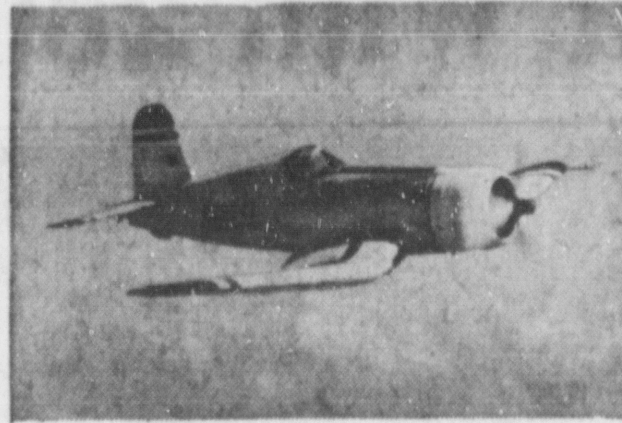

Among the companies on the upside this year are: General Electric with a gain of 32 per cent; International Business Machines, up 15.2 per cent; Celanese, 88.2 per cent; Western Union, 14.7 per cent; United States Shoe, 24.1 per cent; United Virginia Pulp & Paper, 26.4; Firestone Tire & Rubber, 6.8 per cent, and Avco, 35.4 per cent.

Companies with striking increases, often because of unusually poor showings a year ago, include: International Harvester up 627 per cent; U.S. Plywood, 195 per cent; J. P. Stevens, 147 per cent; United Fruit, 811.7 per cent.

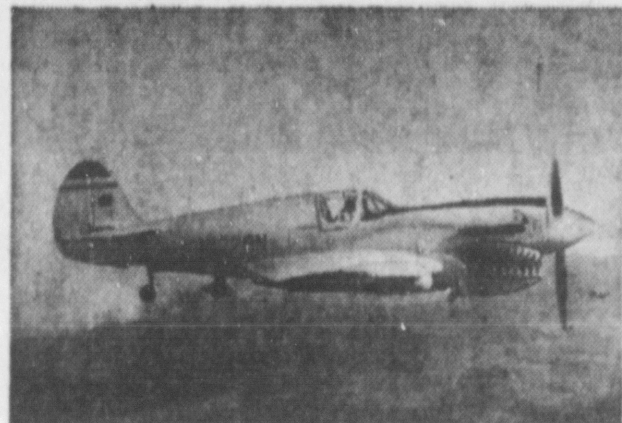

Among the firms with declines this year, for one reason or another which may or may not be representative of their industries, are Superior Oil and National Tea, General Tire & Rubber's earnings slipped 12.2 per cent. Deere & Co. was down 18.7 per cent and Carrier Corporation, 6.4 per cent.

The general gain in profits this year has been expected, both in comparison with a depressed period a year ago and in total volume because of rising business activity. But management spokesmen stress that corporate earnings haven't risen as fast as economic growth in general, that the ratio of profits to sales has fallen, and that the ratio of profits to invested capital also has declined.

THE SOUTH RISES AGAIN—It's 1962, not 1862, but the Confederate Air Force is flying strong from its airport headquarters near Mercedes, Tex. Comprised of a group of men devoted to flying and to the great planes of World War II, the CAF now has one each of eight famous fighters, plus three trainers. Four of them are shown above.

Yankees are welcome in the organization after clearance by the "OSS" (Office of Southern Security). All the planes are owned by the men, usually on a share basis. Naturally, suh, all CAF members are colonels.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

I always enjoy a visit at the Port Ewen School. My first school was the old No. 13 school on Route 9W, the bell of which is still at the new school, as a gift of Mr. and Mrs. James Belefus of Crown Street who at one time owned the old schoolhouse. Robert Graves rang the bell for me, and it works fine, loud and clear, so the new meets the old at the magnificent Port Ewen school.

Mr. Graves, the principal gave me their 25 page Busy Beaver's News, published by the students. We never had that kind of fun in our day. They have news, pictures and poems from the different grades and even sports. From the "First Grade News" they say they are now in the midst of planting a garden. "Mr. Joyet put up a fence and we will start planting seeds in two weeks." Mrs. Ross, the school nurse gives precautions against poison ivy, even before the leaves show she says there is a danger in touching the old vines.

Miss Pieper of Room 3 tells about planting some seeds in the room and "We hope to put the plants out in our first grade garden in the back of the school." The "children in Mrs. Ambrose's second grade class have germinated the seeds from last Halloween's Jack-o-lantern," now that they are growing, all the children are waiting to see if they will get some little pumpkins.

Mrs. Graves is originally from London and I love to listen to her British accent. She has given talks on England in the school. This little book is drawn and printed and put together by the children and colored with crayons. No doubt in years to come, somewhere in someone's attic some one will re-read it with longing for his youth.

News from Miss Schwartz reads in part: "My visit to Miron Lumber Yard, by Frank Hoppe. I learned that one side of the knotty pine has knots in it while the other side has no knots at all. I also learned how they cut glass. They have a special kind of pencil with a point, made of a certain metal. The man uses it on glass like we use a pencil on paper."

Sandra Horton from the same class wrote on Miron "Mr. Slaver told us that black walnut cost the most."

I visited Mr. Corcoran's class, and he has self-portraits with a write-up by his students displayed and also they are now studying the Soviet Union. I know much has happened since I went to public school in the world and in the educational systems, in the buildings, and even in the chairs and tables. Our chairs and tables were attached to the floor. Now the chairs can be put on top of the tables for easier cleaning and can be moved around by the students.

They also have a fine lunchroom, we of course went home to eat. Our vegetables and fruits came from our own gardens or green grocer and vitamins were not talked about. Fresh eggs either came from your own chickens or from the neighbors. We considered fresh eggs a couple of hours old. We did not have gym in public school, nor go back and forth to school in buses or private cars. This change has come about a couple of years ago. What will the trends be in ten years, no one knows. And a trend always seems to go across the country.

I do hope we do not get too far away from the land, the make-your-own garden, the pets we all need, especially when we are young; noticing the birds, sky and weather conditions that is also all part of growing up. Spring is very beautiful in our section, to watch a crocus push through the ice, and spread out into waxy lavender or yellow flowers, still the mystery of nature, no matter what science says.

New York City Quintet Takes State Lead With 2808 Series

Pasquale's Slams 363-958-987 in 'A' Division

Pasquale's 840 Restaurant, a New York City all-star aggregation, moved into the lead in the Class A five-women event over the weekend as the 29th annual New York State Women's Bowling tournament neared the halfway mark.

The New York City five shot a 2808 series, rolling games of 863, 958 and 987, to take the lead from Truck Leasin, Inc. of Fredonia, which had a 2693 series.

Mildred Hummel paced the leaders with a snappy 640 series, stroking games of 179, 230 and 231. Leadoff ace Barbara Wiener added 180, 191 and a final 237 for 608 sticks. Clair Herrmann shot 204-552, Mickey Michaels 211-522 and anchor kegger Ellie Monsees 486.

The weekend action also saw a new leader in Class B and one in Class D. Leaders in the doubles and singles action remained firm, with the changes occurring below the top teams in each event.

Congress Beer of Oneida took over the leadership in the Class B team event with a 2364 series Friday night. Carding Aces of Canton moved into second in the same division with 2353.

Burgeon's Florist of Kingston, which had the Class D division lead, lost it Sunday as Bourdon's Insurance of Hammond mauled the wood for a 2189 series. Burgevin's had totaled 2137 in the early weeks of the tournament.

Pasquale's Restaurant came into the tournament with a neat 387 average and the lassies from New York did even better than that. The 2808 series is the highest score in the A division since 1956.

Tournament action will resume on Friday, Apr. 27 and will then continue until the closing on Sunday, May 27. Bowlers have this weekend break because of the Easter holidays.

Ken Lane Teaches Molina a Lesson

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Just how much knowledge lightweight Luis Molina absorbed in his bruising lesson from clever veteran Ken Lane could determine how far the younger San Jose slugger goes in boxing.

"His left-handed style bothered me," the 23-year-old ex-Marine admitted readily after Lane scored a unanimous 10-round decision victory Saturday night at Civic Auditorium with a nationwide television audience.

"I learned some things I didn't know before," he said. Lane, 30, who controlled the fight, quickly agreed to a rematch for an outdoor show in June.

Molina had run up 19 straight victories without defeat, 15 of them knockouts, since turning pro in 1959. Lane fought him as a matador maneuvering a bull. He kept away from the power while jabbing telling combinations.

Lane circled away from the big punches, ducking or dancing back in a classic boxing exhibition. The Muskegon, Mich., southpaw, who won his 79th pro fight against 11 losses and 12 draws, weighed 138½ to 137½ for the stockier hometown favorite.

"I wasn't in trouble at any time," Lane said, despite a slash over his left eye that bled from the eighth round.

Referee Jack Downey and judge Elmer Costa each scored 7-2 for Lane, giving Molina only the second and eighth rounds. Judge Fred Bottaro had it 5-3, and The Associated Press 6-2.

Robinson, Aaron Hit Hard; Schwall Bows Again for Bosox

Sophomore Star Is Beaten, 5-1, By Oriole Club

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Sophomore jinx? Boston's Don Schwall isn't having any, thank you, though the figures show otherwise.

"Nonsense," the 1961 American League Rookie of the Year shrugged after his second straight loss Sunday, 5-1 to the Orioles in the first game of a doubleheader at Baltimore. The Red Sox won the second 5-4.

"I don't believe in any jinx," the tall right-hander said. "I know that sometimes you get more breaks than others. Over a full season, they usually even up for everyone."

He hasn't had much help so far this season. Schwall, who had a 15-7 record with the sixth-place Red Sox last season, was beaten 4-0 in the opener this year. Army Pvt. Steve Barber handcuffed Boston Sunday.

LA in First

Los Angeles' surprising Angels gained sole control of the top spot at the end of the first week's play, taking the Twins 6-3 at Minnesota. Chicago blasted the A's 8-3 at Kansas City. New York at Detroit was postponed by cold weather, and the Washington at Cleveland doubleheader was postponed because of snow.

Only rampaging rookie Rich Rollins bothered Los Angeles' Eli Grba. Rollins, who is hitting .533, accounted for all the Twins runs with a three-run homer, his third, in the ninth. Bulky Steve Bilko crashed two homers and Leon Wagner one for the Angels as they took a half-game lead atop the standings. Grba allowed nine hits, but was supported by four double plays.

Schwall allowed only three hits and struck out eight in seven innings, but was plagued with lack of control, walking seven.

Tackle Shop Beats Albany A.C., 128-118, for Cage Title

Jannot Hits 44, Byrne 42 Points; Scheffel Is MVP

BY ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

In a shooting match that had never before been seen in the area, Ray's Tackle Shop of Kingston swept to the championship of the Kingston Basketball tournament with a solid 128-118 decision over the highly touted Albany Athletic Club before an enthusiastic crowd last night at the Municipal Auditorium.

There were thrills galore in this action packed drama. Dick Jannot of the upstarters and Al Byrne of Kingston put on the greatest pointmaking shows in the tournament history. Jannot finished with 44 points and Byrne had only two less.

Ronnie Is Brilliant

Ronnie Scheffel, who was voted the "Most Valuable Player", was just brilliant on defense and he directed the Tackle Shop attack with the aplomb of a pro. Likewise did Bill Telasky, the hub of the Albany team.

The two centers—Don Cohen of Albany and Chick Boice of the Tackle Shop—were simply outstanding. Time and time again they worked the basket for points and they took turns controlling the backboards.

There were other heroes and for those in attendance, this had to be one of the greatest amateur games they had seen. Change the uniforms and both clubs would look like professionals.

The upstarters moved to a quick 8-2 lead in the opening minutes of play as Jannot connected four straight times from outside.

A Basket Blitz

That marked the only time in the contest Albany led. With Scheffel connecting with bulls-eye passes and with the other players hitting from all sides of the court, Coach Ward Dunham's players moved ahead during the middle of the session and then really blitzed the losers.

The Tackle Shop lead was as high as 25 points on one occasion. The shooting, all-around hustle and defensive work was just too much for the upstarters to overcome.

Albany made a late period rally but it fell far short. Jannot, who had a tryout with the Philadelphia Warriors, had quarter totals of 10-14-11. Byrne, the cage coach at Ontario Central and a former Springfield College ace, rimmed 10-10-14-8 for his night's work.

Scheffel, who makes a happy habit of winning trophies, leads the All-Tourney team, as selected by a committee. Others on the squad are Byrne, Telasky, Jannot and Jack Curry of the McLean Well Drillers. For his feat in winning the "Most Valuable Player" award, Scheffel earned the Hank Krum Memorial Award.

The victory was a personal satisfaction for Dunham, who has seen his talented squad just miss in tournaments the past two seasons. This club was second in the Kingston tournament last season, bowing in the finals to the Pine Plains Bombardiers. The players weren't to be denied this time.

The High Scorer

Telasky nipped Jannot for high scoring honors, getting 97 points in four starts while Jannot finished with 94.

In the consolation contest, McLean's nipped Trailways Cafeteria, 65-43, with Curry getting 26 points and a bushful of rebounds. Joe Uhl rimmed 23 points to pace the locals.

Stanley Dancer to Have Stable Of Horses at Monticello Track

Stanley Dancer will unveil some of his best young horses to Monticello Raceway fans in early closing and special event features carded at the Mighty M during the summer meet from May 31 to September 22.

Dancer has top performers nominated in 18 events in every age category. Stan has mailed a check for $950 to cover entry fees.

Winning Adios, a 1:59.1 performer on a mile track, heads the Dancer list which includes 11 nominees. Owned by Paul Wixom of Chicago, the four-year-old son of Adios-Miss Mamie was an 11-time winner in 1961 and had earnings of $14,785.

Dancer has Winning Adios entered in the $5,000 Fifth Season Pace on June 9. Betting Time, another sub-two-minute amble, will supply some of the opposition.

I. W. Berkemeyer, owner of world trotting champion Su Mac Lad, will be represented by In Haste and William Time. In Haste, winner of $53,317, tops the trotting nominees, and is a probable starter in the opening night $5,000 Sixty-Two Trot.

Good Two-Year-Olds

William Time, half brother to the consistent William Way, is among five two-year-olds listed for the early closers. The Good Time pacer is written in for four events. So is Sly Yankee, the only other freshman pacer.

Dancer has a trio of two-year-olds down for trotting events. They are Egyptian Pride, Banner Boy and Blanton. They are all royally bred.

The three-year-old trotting group is led by Pro Hanover, a four-time winner and holder of a 2:07.3 mark as a juvenile. Noted Hanover, Camp Hanover, and Adio Knight, the lone pacer, round out the sophomore roster.

Adio Knight won at Monticello last year against some top two-year-olds.

Dancer is expecting great things from Adios Ronnie, a nominee for the $3,500 Honesdale Pace on September 1. Adios Ronnie was turned out last year after suffering an injury during his freshman campaign when he carved out a 2:06.2 mile.

The Dancer stable will be heavily represented during Grand Circuit week, July 9-14. Monticello has eight Grand Circuit features penciled in for that week which is expected to highlight the Raceway's 99 nights and two matinees of racing.

Bluth Hits 300 In Masters Play

DES MOINES, Iowa. (AP)—Ray Bluth of St. Louis fired a record 1051 total for four games, including a 300 opening score, Sunday night in his first match of the American Bowling Congress Masters Tournament finals.

Bluth, the '59 champion, came back with a 279 score in his second game, then added 227 and 245 to defeat Pete Treybig, Houston, who rolled 777.

Bluth's 300 game, his sixth in sanctioned competition and first in a tournament, was the first in a Masters final. Al (Bud) Horn of Los Angeles rolled the first perfect game in a Masters last year. His came in qualifying play.

The previous four-game record for a singles tournament was 1026 by Ed Kawolice, Chicago, in 1946 in the Petersen Classic. Bob Nickel, Toledo, held the old four-game record of 1039 for match competition. He shot it Oct. 28, 1956.

Locals Slated Against Albany On Easter Sunday

Scoring four goals in the second half, the Kingston Sport Club warmed up for a big meeting with Albany Athletic Club this Sunday with a 4-0 verdict at Schenectady yesterday against the Football Club of that city.

After being held scoreless for 45 minutes, the locals broke the ice when Bill Newmerchick scored after two minutes of play in the second half.

Three minutes later Reiner Schweber tallied after taking a pass from Al Miller. The last two goals were scored by 17 year old Harry Bequal on passes from Al DiBella.

Beat West Point

The local side journeyed to West Point Saturday for an exhibition game with the Military Academy and won, 2-1. Reiner Schweber and Bequal scored goals for Kingston and goalie Ingo Froehlich made several spectacular saves. He injured a hand and had to leave after the first half. Manager Bob Graves did a commendable job in relief.

The Sports Club will entertain first place Albany at 2:30 Sunday at Hasbrouck Park. The upstarters beat Little Falls, 7-0, in yesterday's action.

In other Central New York games, Poughkeepsie Blue and White beat Poughkeepsie K of C, 5-2; Poughkeepsie Italian Center blanked Albany Sport Club, 1-0; and Troy SC won from Sons of Italy, 4-3. The Endicott-Utica tilt was postponed because of snow.

Lakers in Spot to End Long Reign Of Boston Celtics

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Cautious Los Angeles casts a wary eye on history and the Boston Celtics to night when the Lakers can wrap up the National Basketball Association playoff crown.

In an effort to save its trembling dynasty, Boston hints it will send defensive genius Bill Russell to play the great Elgin Baylor, whose record 61 points Saturday night led Los Angeles to the championship threshold.

The Lakers outscored Boston 33-22 in the final period and pulled ahead 3-2 in the best-of-seven series with a 126-121 triumph.

"We had this same situation a year ago in the semifinals against St. Louis," Los Angeles coach Fred Schaus warned. "We led the series, 3-2 going home, then dropped the next two and were eliminated."

Baylor's 61 points bettered the previous playoff final mark of 50 set by Bob Pettit against Boston four years ago.

For the tired Celtics, there is no tomorrow in their quest for an unprecedented fourth straight crown.

Celtics coach Red Auerbach says he thought about playing 6-foot-10 center Russell on 6-5 forward Baylor Saturday night, then didn't. He clearly intimated the strategy would be part of tonight's last-ditch effort.

Tennessee Cage Coach Resigns

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—John Sines has resigned as University of Tennessee basketball coach.

Sines, who had held the position for the past three years, handed in his resignation Sunday.

Sines said he has accepted a position with a mutual investment firm. "I've been coaching since I graduated from Purdue in 1938," Sines said, "and I have no more security now than I had when I started. When this business opportunity outside coaching came along, it was too good for me to turn down."

GE Uses Light Beam To Cut Into Diamonds

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AP)—A high energy beam of light has been used by General Electric Co. engineers to cut holes in diamonds.

Dr. J. Herbert Hollomon, head of GE's general engineering laboratory, said Sunday that the development could lead to new techniques for machining all types of hard materials.

The light beam, called a laser or optical maser, generated temperatures of about 10,000 degrees and vaporized the exposed surfaces of industrial diamonds.

GE had announced the development of the high-energy laser beam several weeks ago, and had said then that the light was expected to lead to the development of greatly improved long-range radar equipment.

Warrants Sought For Alleged Blue Law Violators

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Police today sought warrants for alleged offenders cited in 102 blue law violations reported by officers throughout the city in the second Sunday of attempted full-fledged enforcement.

Police Commissioner Albert N. Brown was said to be prepared to seek the warrants from Quarter Sessions Court judges if the city's magistrates refused to issue them.

Brown had insisted on issuing warrants as his men did a week ago but chief magistrate Joseph J. Hersch maintained police should obtain criminal summonses instead of warrants.

Hersch last week instructed the magistrates to issue only summonses. He cited the "no bail" law which provides for summonses where the crime is punishable by a fine of $200 or less. A warrant calls for a person's physical arrest. A summons notifies an accused person of the time and place of hearing for an alleged crime.

Blue Law violators are subject to a $100 fine on the first offense.

Dist. Atty. James C. Crumlish Sunday backed Brown. He said he approved of Brown's plan. He said he would also try to break any legal roadblocks thrown up by attorneys for accused violators for whom magistrates might issue warrants.

There also appears to be a reasonable chance that increased business activity will lower unemployment to about 320,000—about 7 per cent of the work force—by the end of the year, he added.

Pennsylvania's steel output in February was below the January volume, Shilling explained, but the decline was less than expected in view of the shorter month.

Present indications are for a slight drop in the March index, but the output should remain high at least through April.

Coal and oil production declined seasonally, he said, and the sale of electricity to large users showed little change.

Hounds are not the only animals man uses to hunt game. The cheetah has been employed for centuries in India and middle eastern countries in hunting antelope and other animals. It is taken to the field hooded and chained in a low car without sides. When the game is within about 200 yards the cheetah is loosed. Over short distances the cheetah can probably outrun any other animal.

See No Change In Pennsylvania Business Climate

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP)—Ned Shilling, assistant director of the Bureau of Business Research at Pennsylvania State University, says recent business activity in the Commonwealth does not indicate a great increase in total employment in Pennsylvania is in prospect during the next year.

In an article published in the Pennsylvania Business Survey, Shilling said, however, that the likelihood of another recession in the next year now generally is agreed to be small.

The failure of a steel inventory-building boom to develop increases the possibility of steady and sustained growth, he wrote.

In viewing the employment prospects, Shilling noted that employment rose by 7½ to 8 per cent after the 1954 and 1958 lows. A similar improvement from the low of last May would add approximately 50,000 workers to the manufacturing payroll, he said.

Shilling predicted the total employment increase in Pennsylvania will be about 80,000. If the normal seasonal pattern continues during the spring, he said, unemployment will drop below 350,000 by May.

There also appears to be a reasonable chance that increased business activity will lower unemployment to about 320,000—about 7 per cent of the work force—by the end of the year, he added.

By ALTON BLAKESLEE

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Are you tired, tucked out?

Would you like someone to foot your bill for several weeks in a beautiful vacation spot, away from the turmoil and stresses of daily life?

In the Soviet Union, Germany, Austria and Switzerland many people get just that kind of break every year. Dr. Wilhelm Raab, an energetic Vermont physician, said today.

Mrs. Luella Willett, 74, of 21 Hurley Avenue, reported injured in a fall near that address Sunday night, was taken to the Benedictine Hospital by Fatum ambulance. Police said she suffered lacerations of the forehead. She was admitted to the hospital for further examination and observation.

Ellenville Man Hurt In Traffic Accident
An Ellenville man was injured and several others escaped injury as the result of two weekend traffic accidents investigated by Ellenville troopers.

Frank Snyder, 49, of Ellenville, was taken to Veterans Memorial Hospital, Ellenville, and treated for a possible neck injury. Troopers said the cars involved were operated by Albert Sears, 63, of Ellenville, and James Walsh, 37, Paterson, N. J.

Sears was traveling south on Route 209 about 1,000 feet north of Ellenville, when he stopped his car. Walsh, going in the same direction, told troopers he was unable to stop and struck the rear of the Sears vehicle. The mishap occurred at 4:45 a. m. Sunday.

At 11:20 p. m. Saturday cars operated by Lawrence Kinker, of Ellenville, and Raymond Connor Jr., 35, of Wawarsing, were involved in a collision on Route 209 about 1½ miles north of Ellenville, according to state police.

Kinker was attempting a left turn and Connor was attempting to pass the other vehicle when the crash occurred. Troopers said no one was injured.

Chamber Warns About Deceptive Sales Practices

The Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce issued a warning today about the usual "spring rash" of sales efforts and promotions many of which use deceptive approaches and very misleading advertising.

"The variety of promotions and sales efforts are becoming so numerous and expert it is almost impossible for the National Better Business Bureau and law enforcement officials to keep up with them," a Chamber spokesman stated today.

In commenting on this statement the spokesman said that very often, before the public, the State Attorney General or the Federal Trade Commission can catch up with some fraudulent schemes, the method is changed, a new corporation is organized by the same people, and it's next to impossible to stop the practices. It's up to those approached not to be misled.

Four specific suggestions were made by the Chamber of Commerce today, as follows: (1) Do not sign any papers or contracts without being absolutely certain you know what you are signing and getting into. Make certain that a completion certificate is not signed before work starts on something for which you do sign a contract. (2) Be sure you are not paying more for the goods or services than you can get identical or similar values at a much lower price. (3) If a person thinks they have been influenced or misled by deceptive practices or false advertising, contact the office of the State Attorney General in Albany or New York City at once and (4) Do not be swayed by persistent and scare sale tactics.

It is interesting to note, the Chamber spokesman stated, "Many individuals have called the Chamber of Commerce to report that they signed a contract and time payment plan for some item and then discovered they could get similar goods or services from local established sources at from one-half to one-fifth of the price they agreed to pay. Some calls reported failure to receive promised payments for referrals."

Nixons in New Home
BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — The Richard M. Nixon family has moved into its new home at 410 Martin Lane.

Bank Exhibit Is On Until Apr. 20
An exhibit of oil paintings by 12-year-old Ross Neher of West Camp is on display in the lobby of Kingston Savings Bank, 273 Wall Street.

The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oswald Neher, has been painting for five years, and during the past two years has received instructions from Victor Dowling of Hudson, a noted local art teacher.

The 19 paintings shown at the bank are but a portion of Ross' work, which to date exceed 40. His most recent painting is that of President Kennedy, entitled "Our 35th," which is shown in the large window of the bank. Another painting on display, "The Reader," was completed within a two-week period, with Ross' father as model.

Ross received state-wide notice when six of his paintings were included in an exhibit on the third floor corridors of the New York State Assembly at Albany. His sponsor was Assemblyman William E. Brady of Greene County.

The exhibit will remain on display at the Bank through April 20.
